

Zoning by-law changes proposed

Articles submitted by residents seeking to change the town's zoning by-laws head up the articles submitted for Wilmington's 1986 annual town meeting.

One article would rezone to R-60 all residential land currently in parcels of more than 60,000 square feet. The article was submitted by a group of people which includes some residents of the Burlington Avenue area who are trying to stop or limit a subdivision proposed for the old Roberts Estate.

Another article would delete nursing homes from uses allowed in residential areas under special permit. The article was submitted by residents of the Hillside Way area in an attempt to block a proposed nursing home.

Four articles have been submitted for rezoning of land. One article would rezone the Chisholm farm in west Wilmington from R60 to R20. Another article seeks to rezone the property of Grossi of 170 Main St. to GI, industrial.

An article submitted by Steve Lawrenson would rezone land behind the North Wilmington parking lot to General Business.

A fourth rezoning article, submitted by Al Fiorenza, would rezone land on West Street to General Industrial.

An article submitted by members of the Wilmington Finance Committee would require new positions (jobs) to be created only at annual town meeting, not in a special town meeting.

Gerry O'Reilly of Wildwood Street submitted an article to set aside the Walker School site as a playground, to be called the Walker Playground.

Two articles were submitted by the Wilmington Council for the Arts. One seeks to have the old town hall turned over to the council. The other seeks $4500 operating funds.

The deadline for submitting articles was on Feb. 14, although the selectmen may draft other articles for the warrant. The town meeting will be held on Sat., April 26.

Coalition seeks to slow pace of development

by Arlene Surprenant

A neighborhood coalition, made up of representatives from five or six areas in town, has recently been formed to start a townwide effort to slow down the rate of development in Wilmington.

At the instigation of Al Cuoco and Alan Michel, residents from such areas as Chestnut Street, Burlington Avenue, Suncrest Avenue, Harold Avenue, Reed Street and Broad Street were invited to a meeting January 29 to work out ways to check the recent spurt in subdivision growth in town.

The group decided to submit an article for voter approval at the annual town meeting. The article proposes to amend the zoning map and zoning bylaws to rezone to R-60 (1 1/2 acre) any residential parcel of land containing 60,000 square feet or more. Coalition members expect that such a proposal would eliminate spot zoning and limit developments to fewer homes. With fewer homes, there would be less strain on town services and area roadways, they reasoned.

Other options discussed at the meeting were declaring a moratorium of subdivisions and turning tax money over to the Conservation Commission to enable members to buy up land for conservation purposes.

The residents who turned out at the meeting were also vocal about putting some pressure on town boards, such as the Planning Board and the Board of Appeals, to really listen to their desires. Many were in favor of a suggestion to have all board members elected to office rather than appointed. Said one resident: "It may give them a message that we're unhappy with individuals who don't follow the will of the people."

Michel proposed the coalition take an active interest in the workings of the town government and strive to get residents on the boards who share their interests.

Tires 'n ice

Beauty and treachery came in the same package this week. A winter storm coated trees and roads -- and all outdoors -- with ice. Wilmington fared well, with limited power outages and few accidents. Revised plan submitted for Wilmington subdivision

A revised plan has been submitted for the proposed Bedell Estates, to be built off Chestnut Street in Wilmington. The new plan proposes a permanent easement around Patch's Pond, the old turning pond of the Middlesex Canal. The plan was submitted to the Wilmington Planning Board Tuesday evening by Erich Nitzsche, for developer Jay Tighe.

Two streets had been planned to intersect with Chestnut Street, Cushing Drive and Kara Road. Under the new plan, the latter will not be built to intersect with Chestnut Street, but will be entered from Towpath Road. Kara Road will connect only in the form of a utility easement.

The intersection of Cushing Drive and Chestnut Street is being improved, since it will be at a particularly bad curve on Chestnut Street. The intention is to improve the sight distance at the entrance.

An easement will be allowed around the pond, with entrance from Cushing Drive, making the pond accessible to the public.

Program offers funds for new homeowners

by Arlene Surprenant

Because of an "overwhelming need for affordable homes," Massachusetts Housing Partnership (MHP) has initiated the Homeownership Opportunity Program. The $225 million program, announced by Governor Michael Dukakis January 15, will give moderate income families a chance to purchase their first homes.

According to a letter sent to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski by Amy Anthony and John Bok of MHP, the program funds will be used to finance the construction of 2,500 new housing units in Massachusetts over a two-year period. New homes will be priced significantly below the statewide average and will be available exclusively for first time, moderate income home buyers.

Towns which agree to participate in the program are expected to help reduce costs by donating sites, rezoning property, and expediting the permit process. Five million dollars is set aside in Community Development Action Grant funds for the construction of sewers and roads associated with the new homes.

At the Wilmington Board of Selectmen's meeting February 10, Stapczynski said he would look into the program. He might consider participating in it when Wilmington is ready to sell town owned land once again, he said.

Capital outlay items pared

by Arlene Surprenant

In a continuing process to arrive at a workable school department budget, Superintendent of Schools Robert Horan recommended a bottom line figure of $89,470 for capital outlay expenses. The figure, unanimously accepted by the Wilmington School Committee last Wednesday, was pared down from requests totaling $175,879. It will be presented to voters at the annual town meeting as a separate warrant article.

A majority of the monies will go toward various types of furniture and office machines, including a $1395 office copier, a duplicator, computer, art, and cafeteria tables, a piano, and elementary school furniture.

Next in line is audio-visual equipment, 11 computers, ($23,000), and a wrestling/gymnastics mat ($7,000) to be used in all schools. The audio-visual equipment includes cassette recorders, slide and filmstrip projectors, a 16 millimeter projector, and a video camera for the Woburn Street School. Eight of the computers will go to the high school to create a second lab where a class could be scheduled for computer-related courses. Horan approved all requests by the Special Education Department.

Later, Horan said he "tried not to exclude any school" in his recommended figure, though he admitted he allotted less to the high school because he expects some of the items to be picked up as renovation expenses.

Hyundai dealership to occupy AMC site

Hyundai Motors will soon open a new automobile agency on Main Street in Wilmington. The dealership is owned by Ben Ristuccia, owner of Wilmington Ford and other dealerships.

Dan Ristuccia appeared before the Wilmington Board of Appeals, and won the right to change signs on what is now the American Motors building.

Ristuccia told the Board of Appeals that the AMC agency is going to be moved across the street. Both the present sales room and the new service building in the rear will be for the Hyundai dealership.

KINDERGARTEN AND FIRST GRADE REGISTRATION

Children entering the Wilmington Public Schools, either Kindergarten or First Grade, must register during the WEEK OF MARCH 3 - 7

between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. at one of the following schools:

Wildwood School
Woburn Street School
Shawsheen School

If your child reaches the age of five on or before August 31, 1986, he or she should register for Kindergarten at this time.

If your child reaches the age of six on or before August 31, 1986, he or she should register for First Grade at this time.

A birth certificate must be presented at the time of registration.

NOTE:

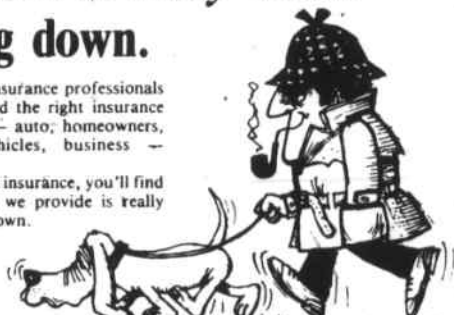

Parents entering children in Kindergarten will also register at this time for the Chapter 776 pre-school screening. This screening will be conducted early in May, and further information will be forthcoming. Also, screening is available to 3 year olds whose parents believe that their child has a reasonable likelihood of having substantial disabilities. Parents of 3 year olds wishing to have their child screened may register on the above dates at the Wildwood, Woburn Street, or Shawsheen Schools.

It's YOUR Money

by Joyce K. Brisbois
Certified Public Accountant
MOVING YOUR IRA MONEY

There may come a time when you want to move your IRA investment from one institution to another — to a bank that pays more, to a broker your friend recommends, to a fund with a better track record. It is not as simple as closing on account and opening another; the IRS has rules.

While it is possible just to have one financial institution transfer the funds to another automatically, there may be a time lag that costs you money. Many people find it more advantageous to roll over the money. In writing, you ask the custodian of your IRA for a distribution of a certain amount (part or all of the account), noting that withholding taxes should be waived for the rollover. Once you have the money, you must redeposit it in another IRA within 60 days. You do have use of the money for that time, but you can bring terrible tax trouble on yourself if you keep it any longer.

Lump-sum pension funds can be rolled over, too, but there are other alternatives that may be more advantageous. Check your accountant for advice.

Camp Fire to hold 'Many Cultures Day'

Workshops for area children in Chinese Dance, Middle Eastern Dance and Culture, and Native American basket-making will be part of Camp Fire's "Many Cultures Day" to be held Saturday, March 1 at the North Street School in Tewksbury.

Area girls and boys in grades one through eight are invited to join Camp Fire members at these workshops to explore international cultures. Registration forms are available at the Tewksbury and Wilmington public libraries and recreation departments, or by calling Camp Fire at 876-9800.

The "Many Cultures Day" is presented by the Council for Greater Boston Camp Fire as part of Camp Fire's "Many Cultures Make Up Our World" project, designed to help boys and girls explore their own cultural heritage and cultures around the world. The "Many Cultures Day" in Tewksbury will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"Putting children directly in touch with ethnic artists and humanists provides an opportunity to increase their sensitivity, understanding and appreciation of themselves and others," noted Camp Fire Executive Director Cynthia Beaudoin. "Each of us has a cultural heritage that is unique in some ways and universal in other ways. Through these activities, Camp Fire helps children enjoy the richness of diversity."

The Many Cultural Day includes: Chinese Dance, folk dances from several different regions in China, taught by instructors from the East-West Theatre; Middle Eastern Dance & Culture, an exploration through dance movements, stories, costumes and musical instruments, taught by Dora Kaljian; Native American Craft, basket-making with cattails, taught by native Wampanoag artist Anita Neilson.

The day will conclude with a performance by The Ninots, a creative puppet group, who will perform folk tales from a variety of cultures.

Cost for the day is $10, and pre-registration is required (no admissions at the door).

Camp Fire is a not-for-profit volunteer youth agency for boys and girls ages five through teens, offering neighborhood clubs, summer camps, and community response workshops. The activities in the "Many Cultures Make Up Our World" project have received partial support from the Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency.

Open house to honor Dr. Connelly

The North Intermediate School P.A.C. will sponsor an open house for the school principal, Dr. Joseph Connelly, Wednesday, February 26 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the N.I.S. cafeteria.

Parents, former students and students (accompanied by an adult) are invited to bid farewell to Dr. Connelly after 19 years of outstanding service to the Wilmington community and to congratulate him on his appointment as superintendent of Topsfield-Boxford schools effective March 1, 1986.

Recovered in Wilmington

Tewksbury workers charged with stealing kitchen cabinets, but not the sink

Tewksbury police have charged two workers employed by the Carter Green Condominium project with the theft of two sets of kitchen cabinets. Police also arrested a pair of Wilmington residents in connection with the case and charged them with receiving stolen property.

Robert L. Kennedy, Jr., 24, of 33 Lowe St., Tewksbury and Charles Pitrone, 35, of 1 Hamilton Ave., Billerica were charged with a single count each of larceny of goods from a building worth over $100. The arrests were made hours apart on February 10. Both men, Johnson said, are employed by Robert Sullivan, developer of the Carter Green project and relative of Tewksbury Police Chief John Sullivan.

According to Sgt. Paul Johnson, the pair allegedly took two sets of new wooden kitchen cabinets valued at a total of $3000 from the cellar area of units under construction. The cabinets were then allegedly brought to a Nichols Street Wilmington home.

Based on information received during a brief investigation into the theft, Tewksbury police obtained a search warrant for the Nichols Street, Wilmington home and executed it February 9 with the assistance of Wilmington Police Sgt. George Shepard and Inspector Mark Jepson. That raid resulted in the arrest of Robin Pierce, 26, and Wayne Olson, 30, on charges of receiving stolen property.

Police recovered the cabinets and gained further information following the raid that led to the arrest of Kennedy and Pitrone the next day.

Johnson headed up the investigation. Helping on the case were Tewksbury Inspector Robert Haines and patrolman George Hazel.

Tech may adopt drug policy

By next September, Shawsheen Tech may have a new student handbook in place, complete with an enforceable substance abuse policy patterned along the lines of those in nearby towns.

"I, personally, look on Wilmington's (drug) policy as a real role model," said Tech school committee member Kevin Sowyrda. In a call for a return to "reality," Sowyrda said, "the most important thing we can do is come up with a realistic substance abuse policy" to incorporate into the handbook.

According to Sowyrda, the Student Handbook Review Committee began a lengthy review process Tuesday night. One of the first areas looked at was the elimination of the school smoking area, said Sowyrda. Presently, smoking is allowed on the patio during lunch periods.

Sowyrda hopes members will agree to eliminate the smoking area and come up with strong penalties such as detention or in-house suspension to deter students from smoking on school grounds. He feels it's "educationally unsound to have a condoned area for smoking."

The 15-member review committee will meet on a weekly basis until the new handbook is complete.

Boards postpone appointment to school committee seat

Icy road conditions and the absence of two voting members forced the postponement last Tuesday of a selectmen and school committee joint decision on who to appoint to fill a vacancy on the school committee. The vacancy was created when Mary Hallisey resigned after serving the first nine months of her three year term.

Three residents are vying for Hallisey's seat. One of them will be appointed next Tuesday to serve on the committee until the next town election in April when voters elect a candidate to serve out the final two years of Hallisey's term.

The meeting last Tuesday was cancelled when School Committee Chairperson Dr. Carol Wareing announced she could not attend. Selectman Brian Sheehan was also reportedly unable to attend Tuesday.

Seeking the appointment are:
— Scot Consul of 1137 Main Street.

— Nancy Keough of 80 East Street.
— And Benjamin Maxwell of 160 Beech Street.

The person selected will serve on the committee until the April 5th election results are in. Nomination papers for this school committee seat and other town offices up for election this year are still available at the town clerk's office in the town hall Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday evening from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

In order to be placed on the ballot, candidates must have the proper signatures on the nomination papers for the office they seek and must file those papers at the office of Town Clerk Elizabeth Carey by 5 p.m. on Saturday, February 22.

The town election will be held Saturday, April 5 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Larz:

"For me, I prefer flowers over weeds - and natural beauty over the invented placebo. I'll pass the substitute euphoria of pot and coke, uppers and downers. . . for a walk near the tidal pool and romp with kids and dogs, a sunset, a hang-glider, and a two-mile jog at dawn. I will always love and cherish life."

For me, there is only time enough to be a winner. . . but no time at all to be a loser!" -- Denis Waitely Nightingale - Conant "Psychology of Winning."

My prayer for our young people today is that they find no time to be losers and only winners. In the past few weeks we have had 18 incidents of drug/alcohol abuse related to school or school activities in Wilmington.

Yes, the drug policy is working and all of these students were suspended, many for the first time. However, prevention is the best answer and we must continue to be vigilant in our efforts of public awareness of this insidious situation among our children and use of illegal substances.

Somewhere along the line we as a society are failing our children, they are not being told how very 'special' they are and how they are our nation's most valuable asset. We must help them to go beyond self-love (which so many of them lack) to self-worth!

There is nothing more rewarding than to see happy, healthy young people going for the "goal."

We hear a lot about low self-esteem among our children, the verb esteem means "to appreciate the value of." We are all worthwhile, changing, imperfect, growing individuals and once we accept that and recognize that we are not born with equal mental and physical traits, but we are born with the equal right to feel deserving of peace and accepted because we exist.

Unfortunately, our world creates too many losers in our judging ways. . .

Please, parents kiss your child goodnight tonight and tell them just how "special" they are. . . and kids, take time to tell your mom she is a nice person and say "thanks" to your mom and dad for providing a good home for you.

Let's start affirming one another. . . We can always find someone to tell us what is wrong with us. . . Let's start telling each other what is right with us!

Anne D. Linchan
"A Special Person"
And so are you!!!

Dear Larz:

In fairness to the incumbents and anyone else who may be thinking of running for the office of selectmen, I feel compelled to state my intentions at this time, although the filing deadline is still weeks away.

I am flattered by the many offers of support (if I were to run for this office) by the citizens of our community.

Like myself, they want to see our town retain what is left of that old New England small-town atmosphere.

There is no doubt that the vast majority of Wilmington's people want only orderly development of our community; and they want public officials on town boards who feel the same way about our quality of life.

Therefore, I will retain my seat on the Wilmington Planning Board, where I can continue to be a strong voice for the people of the town. I will not be a candidate for the Board of Selectmen.

25 Years Ago

The February 23, 1961 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington, noted that:

Town Manager Cecil Lancaster's budget included an increase in his salary to $11,500, a raise given without his request by the board of selectmen in executive session.

It was recommended that the dog officer's salary be raised from $1,416.00 to $1,600.00.

The accountant's salary was raised $5 a week; the accountant's clerk's salary was raised $10 a month.

Police officers with three years on the force would receive $95 a week as well as privates on the fire department. Sergeants on the police and fire departments would be getting $102 while the chiefs would be raised to $130. Female officers and traffic supervisors were raised to $75 a month.

The planning board asked for $800 less than it did in 1960 and operation of the public dump would be increased $500 to $9,000.

Rehearsals were underway for a one-act play at the Wildwood Club. Cast included Charles Nickerson, Shirley Eckberg, Bill Hooper, Chucky Nickerson, Barbara Hooper, Pauline Erickson, Howard Radochia. Bernice Hubby was helping to direct the presentation.

The Greater Boston Economic Committee predicted that by 1978 Wilmington's population would reach 70,000.

Eddie Forest of Main Street announced his candidacy for Housing Authority.

A testimonial to Mrs. Elizabeth Kelley was being planned by the Wilmington Town Democratic Committee for March 29 at Tonello's Supper Club in Tewksbury. Cecil Cantrell of High Street was in charge of tickets.

Lucci's was offering New York sirloin, cube or blade steak for 89 cents a pound; Mapleleaf franks for 69 cents, beef liver for 39 cents and double United stamps Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

John Stanley, son of Mrs. Sylvia Bowman of High Street was awarded the annual Eighth Grade Science Countdown in the Wilmington schools and was scheduled to take a test to determine his eligibility to enter the Middlesex County contest.

Tewksbury's Patten Public Library is beginning a six week story hour program on Thursday, February 27, for children three to five years of age who do not attend kindergarten. Positive proof of age (birth certificate or abstract) must

The sessions will be held at 10:15 a.m. every Thursday and Friday mornings. Pre-registrations will be held at 1 p.m. Monday, February 24. Telephone registrations are not accepted. Enrollment for each session is limited to 25 children, and all children must be residents of Tewksbury.

For further information, contact Mrs. Moore, Children's Librarian, at the library.

Miceli recaps '85 legislation

The effects of many of the major pieces of legislation enacted during the 1985 Legislative Session will begin to be felt in a positive way over the next several months, Rep. James R. Miceli said.

"Most legislation has a 90 day period before it becomes effective," Miceli explained. "And even on the major measures with immediate effective dates, their benefits work their way steadily through the government and economic system."

The Wilmington Democrat, a member of the House Rules Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee, said he considered the 1985 legislative year as "a year of tremendous positive results for the people of this district and for the people of the Commonwealth.

"There are both immediate and long term beneficial results on the way," he said. Miceli cited the Education Reform Act as one piece of legislation whose benefits "will have shape education into the next century." While the record high $2.87 billion in local aid, and the phased-in abolition of the 7.5 percent income tax surtax will "product benefits in the present year."

Miceli cited a number of major accomplishments during the 1985 session, many of which are already benefitting taxpayers and consumers.

Among those cited were: The State Budget with its $2.87 billion in local aid; the Surtax Repeal, worth $285 million to taxpayers; a $1.19 billion Transportation Improvement Bond Issue; modernization of Workers Compensation; a new law allowing local officials to use short term revenue surpluses to offset long-term fiscal obligations; and an extension of the state tax credit for the installation of renewable energy systems.

Also, a new program to detect Urea Formaldehyde and pay for its removal; tightened provisions of the Auto Lemon Law; increased expenditure power for County Advisory Boards; and an extension of Home Rule provisions to county government.

Also, a $273 million expansion and upgrading of county jails and correctional institutions; a mandated cap on levels of acid rain pollutants; increased air pollution fines; a $424 million program for water pollution control; a self-insurance pool program for city and town insurance; the mandatory seat belt safety law; a tax break for surviving spouses; five percent cost of living increase for recipients of Veterans Benefits; and a new law prohibiting mandatory retirement at age 65.

Constituents with specific questions about legislation passed during the 1985 session are welcomed to contact his office for details, Rep. Miceli said.

Colorful, fragrant strawberries brighten bridal dessert buffets

A special way to celebrate an upcoming marriage is to host a mid-afternoon or evening bridal shower featuring a strawberry dessert buffet.

Strawberry desserts, made from either fresh or frozen berries, add a colorful, fragrant touch to your celebration. They also combine well with a variety of beverages and accompaniments to complete the buffet.

When fresh strawberries are available, pile them in a basket to be used as dippers for chocolate fondue, yogurt fruit dips or confectioners' sugar.

Select fresh berries that are bright red in color, plump and have a fragrant aroma. They should be handled gently and as little as possible before serving.

Frozen berries should be thawed completely by immersing the package in warm water. Use all the juice unless the recipe indicates otherwise.

Strawberry Tunnel Cream Cake is a fresh, delicate dessert that is perfect for a bridal shower — elegant looking, but easy to make!

Combine sweetened condensed milk, cream cheese, lemon juice and strawberries to make creamy filling for the center of an angel food cake, either purchased from the bakery or quickly made from a mix. This luscious cake can be made in advance of the party.

Strawberry Cheese Flan and Individual Strawberry Trifles are two delicious no-fuss desserts that can also be prepared in advance. The flan is made with orange rind, orange juice and fresh strawberries which flavor the cream cheese and sweetened condensed milk filling. The orange complements the strawberry flavor in this smooth flan.

Individual Strawberry Trifles make single servings for each of your guests. They are made with ladyfingers sprinkled with sherry and topped with a creamy mixture of sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, strawberries and whipped topping.

NO-BAKE STRAWBERRY-ORANGE CHEESECAKE

(Makes 10 to 12 servings)

- 1/2 cup margarine or butter, softened
- 1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 2 cups orange juice
- 1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
- 1 (14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk (not evaporated milk)
- 1 cup chopped fresh strawberries*
- Additional sliced fresh strawberries

Combine margarine, crumbs and sugar, press firmly on bottom and halfway up side of 9-inch springform pan.

In small saucepan, sprinkle gelatin over orange juice; let stand 1 minute. Over low heat, stir until gelatin dissolves; set aside.

In large mixer bowl, beat cheese until fluffy. Gradually beat in sweetened condensed milk until smooth.

Stir in gelatin mixture then strawberries. Pour into prepared pan.

Chill 4 hours or until set. Garnish with sliced strawberries.

Refrigerate leftovers.

*Or, use 1 (16-ounce) package frozen strawberries in syrup, thawed and well drained, reserving syrup. Add enough orange juice to strawberry syrup to make 2 cups. Proceed as above.

INDIVIDUAL STRAWBERRY TRIFLES

(Makes 8 servings)

- 8 ladyfingers, cut into pieces
- Cocktail sherry
- 1 (14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk (not evaporated milk)
- 1/4 cup lemon juice from concentrate
- 3 drops red food coloring, optional
- 2 cups sliced fresh strawberries or 1 (16-ounce) package frozen strawberries, thawed and well drained
- 1 (4-ounce) container frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed (1 1/4 cups)

In individual serving dishes, place ladyfinger pieces. Sprinkle about 1/2 teaspoon sherry over each serving; set aside.

In medium mixing bowl, combine sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice and food coloring if desired.

Stir in 1 tablespoon sherry and strawberries. Fold in whipped topping.

Spoon equal portions into each dish. Chill 2 hours or until set. Garnish as desired.

Refrigerate leftovers.

STRAWBERRY TUNNEL CREAM CAKE

(Makes one 10-inch cake)

- 1 (10-inch) prepared round angel food cake
- 2 (3-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
- 1 (14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk (not evaporated milk)
- 1/4 cup lemon juice from concentrate
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 2 to 4 drops red food coloring, optional
- 1 cup chopped fresh strawberries or 1 (16-ounce) package frozen strawberries, thawed and well drained
- 1 (12-ounce) container frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed (5 1/4 cups)
- Additional fresh strawberries, optional

Invert cake onto serving plate. Cut

THE FRESH STRAWBERRIES in the Strawberry Tunnel Cream Cake are a delicious bounty of spring.

1/2-inch slice crosswise from top of cake; set aside.

With sharp knife, cut around cake 1 inch from center hole and 1 inch from outer edge, leaving cake walls 1-inch thick. Remove cake from center, leaving 1-inch thick base on bottom of cake. Reserve cake pieces.

In large mixer bowl, beat cheese until fluffy. Gradually beat in sweetened condensed milk until smooth.

Stir in lemon juice, extract and food coloring if desired. Stir in reserved cake pieces and chopped strawberries. Fold in 1 cup whipped topping.

Fill cavity of cake with strawberry mixture; replace top slice of cake. Frost with remaining whipped topping.

Chill 3 hours or freeze 4 hours. Garnish with strawberries if desired.

Return leftovers to refrigerator or freezer.

How good a guest are you? Take this quick quiz to find out

If the first sign of spring is the crocus, the second is just as surely the wedding invitation. Now is the time of year when any day is likely to bring an elegant envelope tucked in with your electric bill, supermarket circular and favorite magazine subscription.

So it's a good time to ask: How's your Guest-Etiquette? Take this quiz from Bride's magazine and see if you're up to the season ahead.

True or false:

1. Verbal acceptance of a wedding invitation is okay.
2. You don't have to send a gift if you don't go to the wedding.
3. You should bring the wedding present to the reception.
4. If you're dating someone, it's fine to bring him or her to the wedding.
5. A female guest shouldn't wear all-black or all-white.
6. The last person to be seated in church is the mother of the bride.
7. On the receiving line, you "congratulate" the groom; offer "best wishes" to the bride.
8. You shouldn't leave the reception before the newlyweds do.
1. F — Unless it's a very informal invitation. A formal, engraved invitation should be answered with a brief handwritten note on a double sheet of fine white note paper. If a response card is provided, use that.
2. T — If you're close to the couple, you'll probably want to send a gift, but it's not required.

3. F — Except if the gift is a check. Then you can bring it to the wedding and give it to the couple personally. Otherwise, send the gift to the bride at her home as soon as possible after you receive the invitation. A check sent before the wedding is made out to the bride.

4. F — An invitation is only for those specifically mentioned. Unless it reads "and guest" or "and family," they only want you.

5. T — Although the rules are bending somewhat on this, especially since black is so fashionable right now. In general, judge what you should wear by the formality of the invitation. You can rarely go wrong in a suit and tie, for a man, and a street-length dressy party or cocktail dress, for a woman.

6. T — This is the signal that the ceremony is about to begin, so if you arrive later, stand unobtrusively at the back unless the ushers direct otherwise. It's best to try to arrive at least 10-15 minutes early.

7. T — You could cause offense if you reverse them. Other tips for negotiating the receiving line: Introduce yourself to anyone who isn't certain to know you. (Remember, the whole wedding party is in a bit of a daze by now.) Say something brief and pleasant to parents and other family members.

8. T — Although this was truer in the days when the bride and groom always left the reception early, in a shower of rice, to go directly on their honeymoon. These days, some newlyweds stay right until the end of the party so an alternate rule might be: Don't leave until the cake has been cut and served. Remember to thank the wedding's hostess — usually the bride's mother — when you do go.

Advice for minimizing the stress of wedding planning

As anyone who has gotten married can tell you, the months leading up to a wedding can be a time of stress as well as happiness. There's just so much to think about and do! You need to find ceremony and reception sites, to choose just the right clothes, to make sometimes touchy decisions about who will be in your wedding, to furnish a complete home for your life after the wedding — and all this while you're having the inevitable doubts about getting married in the first place.

While wedding jitters are about as common as weddings, there are ways to make sure the anxiety doesn't get out of hand. Bride's magazine has these common sense suggestions:

- Don't be afraid to admit you're upset. Tell your partner what's bothering you, whether it's a serious question about your relationship or a relatively trivial worry that you'll go blank when it comes time to say your vows.

If you try to keep the stressful feelings to yourself, you'll only transfer them to something else, getting overly irritated at a late train, or a run in your stockings. Take positive action whenever possible. Sign up for a premarital workshop. Practice reciting your vows in front of a willing friend.

- Share the wedding responsibilities. If you're the bride, don't assume you have to do everything yourself. This idea is old-fashioned, as well as exhausting. Ask your fiancé to join you in picking out a catering hall and registering for gifts. He can write a share of the thank-you notes and handle all the honeymoon arrangements.
- Keep a calendar of everything you have to do. This kind of master plan gives you the secure feeling that you're not forgetting something crucial. Also gather any business cards, fabric swatches or magazine clippings you accumulate all together in one place — either a wedding planner made for this purpose or a simple manila envelope. Organization has the magical effect of reducing anxiety to a manageable level.

- Have a system for each task. Say you're doing your invitations. First, see if the task can be broken down into steps. (You have to address the envelopes, stuff them, seal them and stamp them.) Then, decide how you'll tackle each step: How long it should take and who will do it. Next, set a completion date (invitations should be mailed six weeks before the wedding). Finally, take action by setting a time and a place to begin.

- Pace yourself — don't plan to scout for reception sites the same day you have a report due at work. You'll make it through those pre-wedding months if you promise yourself you won't tackle more than one major job a day.

• Guard your health. Don't let a hectic schedule keep you from eating right, or often enough. You'll feel even more jittery from the weakness that results from a drop in blood sugar.

Be sure to get enough rest and exercise too. Did you know that exercise increases the body's level of norepinephrine, a substance that gives you a feeling of calmness and well-being? If sleep eludes you at night because you have too much on your mind, try the time-tested soothers: A hot bath, warm milk or a back rub.

Contemporary marriage: A blending of the traditional with personal tastes

Today's couples have many wedding and lifestyle options

Marriage today has no one formula. Gone are the days when those who married settled into one particular lifestyle. Today, married couples are more aware than ever before of the different lifestyle options available to them.

On the average, partners are older, more sophisticated and better educated than ever before. All these factors contribute to making today's bride and groom more equipped to decide what lifestyle is best for them.

And, there are many lifestyle options open to young couples today. Whether you opt for getting married when you are older or younger, or decide to have a dual-career marriage or a more traditional marriage, one thing most brides and grooms agree on is that you can make your marriage what you want it to be.

This type of freedom has had a positive effect on the institution of marriage. Young couples now share more of the responsibility for planning a wedding and deciding what type of life is right for them.

When both parties take an interest in the planning, the results are a very personalized, joyous occasion. Planning a wedding the way you want, like planning the type of life you want together, is an expression of what you, as a couple, are "about."

Today's weddings are a combination of yesterday's tradition and your own creative touch. It is not unusual today to see a wedding where the bride wears a traditional wedding gown complete with long train and veil, but refuses to go along with the traditional wedding vows in which she promises to "love, honor and obey."

Most couples take what they feel comfortable with, in terms of tradition, and then add their own personal style.

People are more relaxed today when it comes to wedding etiquette. Many brides and grooms share in the cost of the wedding celebration, and what is even more popular is the sharing of wedding expenses between both the bride and groom's parents.

Rules of proper dress have also eased up considerably. At one time, it was thought appropriate for the groom and his ushers to wear tuxes only for an evening wedding.

Today, it is not unusual to spy a groom and his ushers dressed in tuxes or tails for a noonday wedding. They might even be wearing a plaid, pastel or bright red tie and cummerbund.

The traditional bridal shower has also been updated. Once thought to be a time for girlfriends, aunts and mothers to get together and shower the bride with gifts and words of wisdom, today's bridal shower is more likely to be a cocktail party for both the friends and family of both bride and groom.

Planning a wedding is wonderful and exciting, but it's costly as well. Proper planning and setting your priorities straight early on can help you to cut down on costs.

Concentrate on those things that you feel make your wedding special and unique. That way you can cut corners on those things that aren't as important to you. Determining early on what mood you would like to create will make things easier when it comes to determining costs.

The '80s is a decade of numerous options, but the only way to feel happy about the type of lifestyle you choose or the type of wedding you plan is to follow your own instincts, because you don't have to follow one formula!

What's behind the tradition?

Unexpected origins of wedding customs

It happens in every wedding. The bride and groom exchange rings. They share cake. The bride throws her bouquet. But do you know how these customs began? THE BRIDE: A Celebration (Harry N. Abrams, Inc.), a book by Barbara Tober, Editor-in-Chief of Bride's magazine, reveals their sometimes surprising origins.

The bride throws her bouquet so an unmarried friend can "catch" some luck in romance, goes the modern explanation. But the custom actually started as a form of self-defense.

What's behind it

In times past, belief in the mystical value of a bride's adornments prompted friends and strangers alike to try to grab a piece of her outfit. Eventually, some clever bride found that by flinging her flowers away from herself, the crowd would have something to fight over — and she would escape intact!

The wedding party originally served the serious purpose of protecting the bride and groom from the curses of evil-wishers. They dressed in clothes exactly like those of the bride and groom, so the identity of the happy couple was kept secret on the way to the church and until they were safely married.

Food of love

The first piece of wedding cake is cut and eaten by the bride and groom as a carryover from the time when the sharing of food or wine often was the marriage. Teutons, for example, were considered wed after drinking mead together for thirty days. (The word brideal comes from bride-ale.)

The aisle runner protected the bride from evil spirits who, it was thought, lived below the ground. These demons were also feared to lurk around doorways, hence the bride is carried over the threshold of her new home.

The why of rice

Rice symbolizes the age-old hope that the couple will be as fruitful as the earth. In France, guests shower the bride and groom with wheat; in Morocco, with raisins, figs and dates.

We clink glasses when we toast the bride and groom in order to produce a bell-like sound (bells were believed to be repellant to the devil).

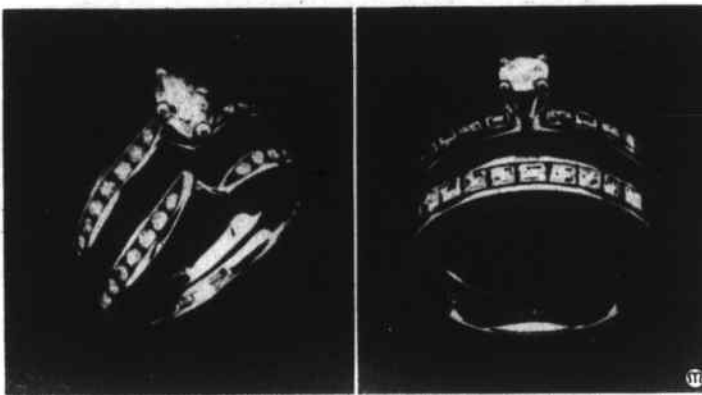

"The kiss," as a significant moment in the wedding, dates from the Roman Empire. At that time, the betrothal ceremony consisted of a kiss and the exchange of rings, with the kiss being the actual legal bond.

The trousseau, or dowry, was actually an early form of life insurance since it was meant to ensure that the bride could survive without her husband if the need arose.

Ring lore

We wear the wedding ring on the third finger of the left hand because the pharaohs of Egypt believed a vein, the "vena amoris," ran from that finger directly to the heart.

The honeymoon began, when, in ancient marriages by capture, the groom kept his bride in hiding to prevent searching relatives from finding her. The word itself comes from the early Teutonic customs of couples drinking an aphrodisiacal honey drink for thirty days, or one cycle of the moon.

DIAMOND ENGAGEMENT RING SELECTIONS with matching diamond wedding rings, are featured by Royal and Regal from Keepsake's Designer Collection.

A diamond engagement ring: A commitment to long-lasting quality

Diamonds, like love, are individual and very precious. Since the 15th century, the diamond has been the gemstone symbolizing a commitment of lasting love between two people.

Once a couple makes this commitment, they are faced with selecting a diamond engagement ring that reflects their individual personality and taste.

When searching for a diamond engagement ring, many feel reassured when they recognize a name they know. A brand name provides this assurance of quality, styling and craftsmanship.

The more knowledgeably you make this decision, the happier you'll be with your choice. Questions about diamond clarity and styling, as well as guarantees against the loss of the center diamond, future trade-in and resetting privileges, should be answered.

Styling choice remains intensely personal and is complicated by the wide range of styles available.

For a couple interested in exclusivity, the Designer Collection from Keepsake offers Royal, a unique engagement ring featuring a marquise center diamond with channel-set side diamonds and matching wedding ring.

Classic Regal features channel-set square side diamonds that showcase a brilliant center diamond.

Reliability and trust are important factors that form the basis of a lasting relationship. In addition, they are essential qualities to consider when choosing a diamond engagement ring.

Professional photographers

Here are some suggestions to help you select the right photographer:

- Begin your search early, particularly if you are getting married in the popular months of June, July, August or September — the busiest seasons.

- Interview a variety of photographers before making your final decision. Select a photographer whose style suits the images you'd like to capture.

- Carefully review your photography needs and budget after selecting a photographer. Remember that wedding portraits of the bride and groom can be taken in advance for the newspaper, and some studios offer bridal packages that include candid shots for a set fee.

Other professionals charge an hourly rate for photography and an additional fee for prints. Cost ranges from about $200 upward, with the median price hovering somewhere between $350 and $750.

- Your photographer also should be willing to discuss various components of the bridal portrait such as hairstyle and makeup, which reflect your true image.

Responsibilities and privileges ...

What's an usher to do?

Being an usher in a friend's wedding is an experience that's an honor and usually a lot of fun, too. But, according to Bride's magazine, some ushers do have one complaint: The bride and groom never tell them exactly what they'd like them to do. So they flounder, feeling that they're somehow falling down on the job.

Make it easy

If you're getting married soon, you can smooth the way for your ushers by making clear plans now:

- Make arrangements for wedding formalwear as soon as possible — to avoid wrong sizes and forgotten accessories. Ushers who live in the area can easily drop by your selected formalwear shop for their fittings. Out-of-town ushers can be measured at a formalwear shop in their respective cities and then send you the measurements.

- Ask one reliable resident usher to be in charge of reminding the other attendants to get measured and to pick up the out-of-town ushers' tuxedos before the wedding.

- Arrange for accommodations for out-of-towners. Perhaps a resident usher could offer his home to groomsmen who are coming from far away? Your ushers might also help reserve rooms for out-of-town wedding guests, either in homes or hotels.

- Explain when and where the rehearsal dinner, as well as pre-wedding parties, and the ceremony itself will take place. Set the attendants' parties and other late-night celebrations for the weekend before the ceremony — to prevent morning-after hangovers and bloodshot eyes at the altar.

And save the night before your wedding for an early-evening rehearsal dinner — to ensure that out-of-town attendants, who may arrive only one day before the ceremony, will be there.

- Your best man will be responsible for holding the bride's wedding ring. Recommend that he keep the ring in its box — not loose in his pocket (where it may get temporarily lost) — or on his finger (which might swell!).

- Tell your attendants exactly what you want them to do at the wedding: When and where they should dress; when and where they should greet guests; any special seating arrangements; how they can help round up stragglers for the wedding photographer.

- Ushers act as extensions of the host of the wedding. They should keep an eye on the guests — especially those who are elderly. They might drive or direct guests to the reception, get them drinks and food, help guests who have overimbibed, or serve as troubleshooters to quietly resolve a problem.

- Ushers can help smooth your departure from the reception. They can carry gifts to your car, as well as transport the presents to your home; hold the car keys, passports, traveler's checks, plane tickets; pack luggage into the getaway car; drive you to the airport or train station; and return formalwear.

It's only fair

Remember not to be too demanding. It's your wedding, but your ushers have busy lives of their own. If you ask them for a special favor, thank them for a job well done.

Dyed-to-match shoes complement fashionable bridesmaid ensembles

Bridesmaids always look more polished when their shoes coordinate with the color of their dresses. Finding an exact match is an easy task if you buy white shoes and have them professionally dyed.

Dyeing them yourself may be unwise, especially since certain stores provide the service free of charge. Besides, you'll feel more comfortable having them done by experienced hands.

In coloring, the choices are "limitless," says buyer Bill Wyatt of the Kinney Shoes chain of stores. "There are lots of colors to choose from at no additional cost."

Here's what to do: Bring a swatch of material identical to your dress to the store, select your favorite style, determine the color, and allow the store a couple of weeks to finish the job.

In selecting the shoe, keep in mind that the classic peau de soie is always a lovely choice, but now there are other options, such as satin or lace over satin. All look very feminine, complementing today's fashionable bridesmaids' dresses.

According to Mr. Wyatt, basic pumps, without ornamentation, are the big sellers. Heel heights vary depending on your tastes.

After bringing the shoes home, you might want to try the following hints. About a week before the wedding, wear the shoes indoors about an hour each day to become accustomed to them. Scuff the soles a bit to avoid slipping down the aisle. After all, you'll want to look and walk your best on that special occasion.

Water awareness topic of LWV program

The League of Women Voters of Wilmington, in continuing its action focus on protection of local water resources, is sponsoring another "Water Awareness" meeting Wednesday, Feb. 26, 8 p.m. at Wilmington Memorial Library.

Since the last "Water Awareness" meeting a year ago, several encouraging developments have occurred.

Doug Noyes

TMHS senior named to Who's Who publication

Tewksbury Memorial High School senior Doug Noyes has been selected for inclusion in the 1896 Annual Who's Who in American High Schools. Doug follows in the footsteps of his brother Scot who was named in the annual publication in 1981.

In addition to being a former Town Crier delivery boy, Doug is on the high school track and field team, performing in the discus and shotput events. He also played junior varsity soccer and had played on town sponsored youth soccer teams since the age of 8. He has also participated in the town's bowling leagues.

Currently employed part time by Bruce Wilson Landscaping, Doug will be attending Springfield College next year where he will major in physical education. His goal, he says, is to give to the youth of the future the same guidance and thoughtfulness that he has received over the years from his teachers and coaches.

In Wilmington, the Aquifer Protection Task Force succeeded in obtaining passage of an Underground Storage Bylaw at a Town Meeting in December, 1985.

The Wilmington Board of Water and Sewer Commissioners is continuing its efforts to protect future water supplies by seeking state funds to purchase land under the Aquifer Land Acquisition program.

On a regional level, State Representative Geoffrey Beckwith of Reading has organized a Regional Water Policy Group to discuss regional concerns related to water quantity and quality. The group, which includes representatives from Reading, North Reading and Wilmington, is discussing actions which the various towns have taken to protect their water supplies, as well as actions that need to be initiated regionally.

The Ipswich River Watershed Association has organized a "River Concerns" group which is also addressing water protection issues from a regional perspective, focusing on the Ipswich River as a source of water for several communities downstream from Wilmington.

Representatives from all of these groups have been invited to attend the "Water Awareness" meeting.

The public is invited to attend this important meeting to learn about what actions are taking place at the local level to protect water quantity and quality.

Tewksbury youth center news

Friday, February 21, Tom Horgan is holding a football tournament. This is for members only. Prizes will be given out. All members are welcome.

The next Youth Center dance is scheduled for the next night, February 22. All are welcome. As usual, tickets will be sold at the door for $3. The last dance was cancelled because of the weather. If it should snow, please call Jean Russell at 658-6925 for information.

LET'S FACE IT . . .

Tewksbury has some pressing problems which need our attention NOW!!

I'm John J. Kelley

And I want to be a selectman because I'm convinced that my experience in town affairs, particularly my 11 years on the finance committee, will help me to re-establish the leadership which is presently lacking on the board of selectmen.

I'm confident that together we can begin to restore our civic pride and regenerate community interest.

In the coming weeks I'll be telling you about some of the things I think can be done to accomplish that end.

Hope you will join with me.

Wildcats rebound after Billerica

Wildcats whip Rangers

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

The Wildcat hoopsters utilized a complete team effort to whip Methuen, 62-53 in Merrimack Valley Conference action last week.

Wilmington came back after a disappointing loss to Billerica to record their eighth overall victory of the season.

Senior co-captain Chris Parr was a big cog for the Cats, scoring 14 points and grabbing eight rebounds. Sophomore center Mike Lombard was also solid for the winners with 15 rebounds and 12 points.

Also turning in big contributions were senior co-captain Russ Lydon (seven points, seven assists), Eric Torrell (eight points and great defense on Methuen's Jozokos), Rod DeSantis (seven), George Fuller (eight) and Jim Moynihan (six points, four assists).

"We took control of the game right away," noted coach Dave Orndorff afterward. "This was a team effort. We played very well. It was nice to see the kids respond after the Billerica game."

The Wildcats shot 40 percent (18-46) from the field and made 26 of 37 foul shots, including four technical foul swishes by DeSantis in the fourth quarter to ice the game.

This same Wildcat team suffered through an off night together earlier in the week at Billerica, losing, 48-37 to the last place Indians. "This was what you would call a team effort in that everyone had a bad game together," noted Orndorff. "After shooting 50 percent for our last four games, we shot 14 for 50 in this game."

The Wildcats also were in tough shape from the foul line, missing the front end of eight one-on-ones and making just nine of 20 shots from the charity stripe.

Parr topped the Wildcats with nine points, followed by Lombard and Eric Torrell with seven points apiece. Lombard also finished with 10 rebounds.

In other recent conference action, the Wildcats came out and blew Dracut away with a 59-41 burst.

The Cats shot 50 percent (25-50) from the field as Orndorff gave his bench people a good workout.

"Dracut came out in a stall, but we showed patience and then trapped them to get out to an 11-2 lead," offered Orndorff. "In the third quarter we came out like gangbusters, scoring the first 12 points."

"I played my subs for half the game and they more than held their own. It's nice to give the kids that bust their humps all year at practice some playing time. They showed good patience and court sense and I'm very proud of them. Dracut is not a very good team, but it was still nice to see the kids do what they've been taught all year."

Mike Stuart led the Wildcat bench brigade in this victory with eight

Streaking Redmen roll

The streaking TMHS hockey squad posted its seventh straight victory Monday night with a 5-2 conquest of Methuen.

Mike McLaughlin netted four goals and Tim Quinn a singleton as coach Bob McCabe's tourney-bound squad finished at 11-3-0 in the conference and 11-5-1 overall. The Redmen clinched the Small School title of the MVHL for the second consecutive season.

Kyle Favreau, Dan Bono, Derek Doherty and John Cho chalked up Redmen assists Monday night.

while senior netminder Dave Carney stopped 17 Ranger shots.

Three TMHS champs

Tewksbury's Redmen wrestlers earned three Division Two North Sectional championships this past weekend. Scott DeVivo won the 122 pound title, while John DeVivo (129) and Brian Aylward (158) also won titles.

Wilmington junior varsity

Suburban boys swim meet

At the last dual meet of the season, the North Suburban YMCA Boys Swim Team hosted a very strong Andover club and came away with losses in four out of five age groups.

In the Class E (eight and under) group Chris Sheppard (Winchester) swam a third place in the 25 free with a 19.9 and took second in the 25 fly with a 25.6.

The Class D (nine and 10) boys went up against a very powerful Andover group and were keeping up fairly well for most of the meet. The 200 medley relay team of Billy Jansen (Wilmington) backstroke, Mark Connarton (Woburn) breast, Ben Sheppard (Winchester) fly, and Ricky DeMinico (Woburn) freestyle came in second with a 2:36.95, one of their best times all season. The 100 individual medley saw Billy Shuh (Winchester) take a third with 1:39.37 and Greg Luongo (Wakefield) came in fourth with 1:44.93.

In the 50 free Jansen swam a 33.92 to take second and DeMinico placed third with a 35.84. Ben Sheppard placed well ahead of everyone in the 50 fly with a 35.55. Sheppard kept up his winning ways by finishing first in the 100 free with a 1:08.61, while DeMinico placed third with a 1:20.51.

A one-two finish in the 50 back for Jansen (39.27) and Connarton (41.62) helped bring the Vikings to within four points of the Andover team. A third place for Luongo in the 50 breast (54.28) and a fourth

(1:10.00) for Richie Saxe (Burlington) combined with a second place in the 200 free relay (swum by Connarton, hall, Luongo and Shuh) were not enough to pull the Vikes ahead and they fell in only their second loss of the season, 42-25.

Now that the YMCA dual meet season is over, the North Suburban Vikings Swim Team is looking forward to the YMCA District Championships to be held at Brockton High School. The Girls' Championships will be held February 21-23 and the boys' will be February 28, March 1 and 2.

quick points off the planks. Joe Maiella notched five points and four assists in a solid performance.

Jim Moynihan ran the offense and scored six points, while Mark Eddy stuck in a bucket and played good defense.

Lombard and Parr paced the attack with 11 points apiece, as Lombard grabbed 11 boards and Parr came up with four steals. DeSantis rounded out the WHS attack with eight points.

Wilmington gave Small School leader Lawrence a real scare in a tough 64-61 setback two weeks ago. Parr scored a team high 23 points and grabbed eight boards, while Lombard hauled down 16 rebounds and scored 12 points.

DeSantis played a nice game with seven rebounds and nine points, while Moynihan helped the cause with six points and four steals.

Lydon (five points, seven assists) and Torrell (four points, five assists) also played well for Wilmington.

"We played well, but we didn't rebound in the second half. Two costly turnovers in the last minute really hurt," noted Orndorff. "We missed the front end of five one-on-ones from the foul line and that also hurt. Team-wise, we worked very hard, but we came up short. We deserved better."

The Wildcats windup their 1985-86 season Thursday night (Feb. 20) when the host the Tewksbury Redmen in an 8 p.m. start at Shawsheen Tech.

Wilmington Police News

During the week ending February 18, Wilmington police officers responded to 31 alarms, nine accidents, three break and entries and six disturbances.

Eighteen arrests and six protective custody detentions were made. Four larcenies were reported along with three incidents of suspicious activity. Four trailbike complaints were taken along with a complaint involving traffic and one regarding trespassing. Two vehicles were reported stolen and six incidents of vandalism are under investigation.

Wednesday morning Officers LaRivee and Richter picked up Joseph DeFreitas of Woburn after his arrest by Woburn by Woburn police on a Wilmington warrant. Also arrested Wednesday morning was Gary Pauley of Malden, who arrested by Malden Police on a Wilmington warrant along with other charges.

Wednesday afternoon he was picked up at Malden Court by Safety Officer Shelley and taken to Woburn Court. Wednesday evening Inspector Jepson and Sgt. Shepard arrested a Lynn woman, Joanna Frederick of Mall Street on a Saugus Police Department warrant. She was later turned over to Saugus officers.

Officer LeGrand arrested a

Beverly man Wednesday evening. Billie L. Barnes of Wallis Street was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and failing to keep right. He was bailed for an appearance in Woburn Court Thursday morning.

The police department now has in operation a complete video and audio system to record arrests and booking procedures at the station. The system is designed to record the complete booking process along with observation of drunk driving suspects. The video is expected to eliminate claims by defendants that they were denied any of their rights; to protect officers against false accusations and to monitor the cell block as an aid to preventing suicide attempts by prisoners.

The police department maintains a drug hotline phone separate from the regular phones at the station. It permits people to report drug or other information direct to the chief of police through a tape recorder. Confidentiality is maintained at all times. The phone number is 657-7149. Also maintained is post office box - No. 775 for those interested in mailing information to the chief.

Thursday Officer Jim Cuoco traveled to Brockton to pick up a Lawrence resident on a Wilmington default for larceny by check. James Webster was held overnight to appear in Woburn Court Friday morning.

The selective enforcement team was on the road Friday during the day targeting traffic enforcement in problem areas around town. Thomas Cronin, Burlington was arrested by the team after a routine radar stop and computer check revealed a default warrant issued by the MDC. Richard Hunt of Elm Street, Tewksbury was arrested after being stopped for speeding. He was charged with operating after his license had been suspended. He was taken directly to Woburn Court.

Saturday night officers Redding and Neville arrested Kenneth Bussey of Haverhill Street, Lawrence at the Methuen Police Department on the basis of a default warrant for larceny and possession of dangerous weapons. He had failed to appear in Woburn Court after arrest two weeks ago. He was held in the lockup for the weekend and a Tuesday Court appearance.

A former resident was picked up at the Carver Police Department by Officers Neville and Redding Saturday night. Joseph Iodice, 11 Winham Rd., Carver was arrested on the basis of a default warrant. He was released on $500 cash bail.

Drug incident

Eleven junior high students were involved in a drug and alcohol incident on the grounds of the North Intermediate School at a recent dance. Superintendent Robert Horan told the Wilmington School Committee at its meeting Wednesday night.

All 11 come under the school drug policy and were suspended for eight days. Ten of the 11 had suspensions reduced to four days because their parents met with school officials, while seven of the students will obtain help through counseling sessions at the Regional Health Center.

How many custodians needed for high school?

by Arlene Surprenant

According to a formula from the Mass. Association of Business Officials, Wilmington High School (WHS) should have 8.2 custodians in the building once renovation work is complete. Right now, four custodians handle the work load. Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski has provided an additional custodian in this year's budget, something which will require voter approval.

School committeeman Mitchell Spiris provided principal Paul Fleming with a copy of the formula after he expressed some concern over the condition of his building. Fleming was especially concerned that the building be kept up to standard once the renovation is complete, Spiris told his fellow board members last Wednesday.

Since the custodial staff falls under town jurisdiction, Spiris suggested Fleming go through the proper channels to make his feelings known and use the formula to justify a request for more help.

Several parents have also expressed concern that school buildings and lavatories are not as clean as they should be, Spiris told the Town Crier.

Aside from hiring more custodians, one solution might be better supervision of the present custodial staff. In terms of good management, said Spiris, the building principals ought to have a more direct supervisory control over custodians.

Spiris suggested that the board of selectmen and school committee get together and discuss the problem to determine who a custodian is directly responsible to and what the evaluation process should be. This would make for a "smoother operation," Spiris added.

Wilmington Senior Topics

Sweetheart dinner

The Sweetheart Plastics annual senior citizen dinner will be held Sunday, February 23 at 2 p.m. at the company, Burlington Avenue. One hundred and fifty seats are available. They will be filled on a first come, first served basis. After that number is reached, a waiting list will be started. As cancellations are received they will be replaced from the list.

Dinner with flowers

Thanks to volunteers Ann MacInnis, Peg McNeill, Ivan Palmer, Betty McLaughlin, Ann Knowlton, Grace and Walter Kirkland, Phil and Mae Cannizaro, Mel Olowski and Minnie Dorrance, 30 catered dinners with flowers were delivered to very happy shut-in seniors on Valentine's Day. There are over 250 shut-in seniors listed. Throughout the year, volunteers try to deliver at least one catered meal to each of them. This is a way of reaching out to the shut-ins in a therapeutic way.

Hearing aid specialist

The hearing aid specialist will be at the Center Friday morning, February 21 beginning at nine. The loss of hearing without seeking help can be very frustrating. Many times it may become a serious obstacle to health. Often people foolishly try to push it aside that hearing is beginning to fail. The opportunity to check hearing free of charge is given at the Center every third Friday of the month. Those who have a problem with hearing aids may also have it checked for efficiency.

Looking for the 'Good Guy'

The Good Guy Committee is looking for a deserving person in Wilmington to honor as this year's Good Guy recipient. Now in its 18th year, the Good Guy award is designed to honor that person (non-political) who goes beyond the normal call of duty to make our community a better place in which to live.

If you know of anyone whom you feel should be deserving of this award, please help the committee by submitting your nomination, with the reasons you feel this individual should be so rewarded, to the "Good Guy" Committee, P.O. Box 387, Wilmington. Deadline is Friday, April 4, and the award will be presented at a banquet on May 9 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wilmington.

the last week. The list will be sent to the light department the end of the week.

Heater-oxygen tank

The Center has been offered two articles in good condition for any senior who may be able to use them. One is an electric heater. If interested call Evelyn at 658-2720. The other is a portable oxygen tank. This is a very expensive item. Anyone in need of this type of medical unit should call Mildred at 658-8767.

Clothes and books

Many clothes and paperback books are donated to the center. Any senior may try the clothes on for size, ask for Frances. The books are sorted and placed in bookcases. You are allowed to borrow the books at any time.

Arts and crafts whist party

The next arts and crafts whist party will be held in the Buzzell Senior center Monday, February 24 starting at 1 p.m. All seniors are welcome to play. Prizes are made available by the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs.

Programs getting back

The programs are gradually getting back into operation. Volunteers are still working on setting up the craft room. It should be ready soon.

Tax assistance

A tax expert will be at the Buzzell Senior Center to make out federal and state income taxes on Wednesday, February 26 and March 5 starting at 9 a.m. Call the center for an appointment.

The Middlesex Fells

The Indian's last refuge

By JIM ROUILLARD

Money Hill and cellar holes; ancient coins and arrowheads dug from the infertile, rocky earth; site of murder, plague and massacre — and last refuge of the now-extinct Indian tribe of the Massachusetts.

The Middlesex Fells used to contain bears, the Old Man of the Fells (a rock profile) and apparently even a silver mine. But those old legends and magic are long gone: the bears well to the north and west, the old man fallen to jackhammer and blasting for modern highways, and the veins of the Silver Mine Hill long since run dry.

These comprise just a tiny part of the body of reality and rumor, in documented publication or fireside tale, among those who know the Fells, a 2.5 square-mile tract of woods, fields, ponds, cliffs, ravines and waterfalls in Winchester, Stoneham, Melrose, Malden and Medford, reserved for the public enjoyment and managed by the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC).

The Fells are a place to catch the rare dawn glimpse of a sleepy-eyed owl, fat, feathered, and ready for bed, or the elusive red fox, as well as the any-time-of-day breeds of common squirrel, bluejay and crow.

It is impossible to decide when the Middlesex Fells Reservation is most beautiful.

My vote might be right now, in winter-time, without snow, or with too little of the white stuff for ski-doo and snowmobiles to function, with their intrusive roar, on sanctioned or forbidden areas. It is also a time when the seasonal cold discourages all but the heartiest from venturing out, to keep the area almost a private estate.

Yet the Fells can be spectacular as well: high, wild and rough during a blizzard, clogged in drift and clouds of swirling snow, the evergreens keening in wind and white-out.

Of course that's not a time for novices: don't wander out in a blizzard unless you're really hearty, properly dressed, experienced, provisioned for emergency, and absolutely familiar with your terrain.

Though beautiful, too, in spring, summer or fall dress, and protected in the main by public statute, like anything else on the planet, the Fells are neither almighty nor eternal. The demands of swelling suburbia are even now helping to do the work of the goblins — with tree-hewing, trash-dumping, ecological infringement by adjacent development,

The Sponsor Homes depend on you

By DOUG BOYLE

NORTH READING — The homeless problem all over the state is one of mammoth proportions.

One of the elements of the problem does have a solution, and although the solution is you, it is not something you would do alone.

The problem that many of the homeless people have starts sometimes with a long hospitalization for any one of a number of reasons, including emotional breakdowns, and long physical illnesses.

Some of the people getting out of the hospital after a long stay find themselves without family, and loss of contacts.

As Joan Rapp, associate area director for the Sponsor Home Program explains, "sometimes people who have been in the hospital for a long period of time, have trouble adjusting.

Treating people right

I recently met a young lady from Wellesley who had an interesting story to tell. When she was in her mid-teens, she decided to sneak out of her house (she lived in an exclusive section of that well-to-do town) to go down to a mall on Rte. 9, in Framingham, to hang out with some friends. It was a very cold night during mid-winter, and there was a lot of snow on the ground.

"When I left the house there was no problem," she recalled. "I just quietly walked out the back door."

When it was time to return home, she faced a dilemma. "I'd left the back door unlocked, so that I could sneak back in. But the door was locked when I got back."

Her parents had apparently discovered that they'd forgotten to lock the backdoor, and bolted it before retiring.

"So I had to find another way into the house," she said. That other way, she decided, would be through her bedroom window.

"My bedroom was on the second floor. First of all, you've got to know just how big our house in Wellesley used to be. It was huge. But there was a tree next to the back of the house that led up to an overhanging roof, which in turn led to my bedroom window. I climbed the tree and managed to get onto the little roof."

As we noted, there was a lot of snow cover at the time, and some of it was on this little roof leading to her bedroom. "It had actually turned to ice, in fact," she went on. "I ended up sliding off the roof and falling to the ground."

When she hit the ground, she new instantly that she was in trouble. She'd heard a loud popping noise, and felt lightning-bolt pain streaking up her leg, starting at her right ankle and shooting all the way up to her hip and back.

"When I looked down I saw blood soaking through my sock, and a piece of bone was sticking through broken skin," she said. "I cried out, but there was no way anybody in the house could hear me."

She crawled around to the front of the house, where she would at least be visible to the street. "I'll never forget what happened after that," she recalled. "I lay there in a bed of blood-soaked snow and waited for a car to go by. I figured I'd hail down a passing motorist, and he could wake up my parents."

Well, a passing motorist did go by. In fact, several went by, but not one stopped to help her. "I couldn't believe it! I was stretched out in the snow, crying out, waving for help, and not one

V.A.'s questions and answers

Q. — My ex-husband receives disability compensation. Our 10 year-old son lives with me. Can I receive some of the compensation for my son?

A. — You may apply for an apportionment of your ex-husband's compensation by contact-ting your nearest VA regional office.

Q. — I am a veteran enrolled in college and I am having trouble with certain subjects. Can I get tutorial assistance? What are the requirements?

A. — Veterans and other eligible persons may receive supplemental assistance for tutorial assistance if attending school on a half-time or more basis and have a deficiency in a critical subject.

Q. — I own a manufactured home on a rented lot. I would like to purchase a lot for it. Can I do this using the VA guaranteed loan program?

A. — Yes. A VA guaranteed loan may be used to buy and improve a lot on which to place a manufactured home you already own and occupy.

Q. — May a veteran who is eligible for education benefits under two different laws receive benefits concurrently for the same educational program?

A. — No.

Q. — While a patient in a VA medical center I received a small amount of money for participating in a work therapy program. Will this affect my income limit for receiving VA pension benefits?

A. — Yes. Earnings from VA sponsored compensated work therapy or incentive therapy programs constitute income for VA pension purposes.

Q. — Is income from an annuity or endowment insurance considered income for VA pension purposes?

A. — Yes. Gross amounts of an annuity or endowment will be considered income as received.

Q. — I am a widow of a veteran. Prior to my husband's death we planned to adopt a child who was supported by and lived with us. My husband died before we were able to do this. I receive Dependency Indemnity Compensation. Can I claim this child as a dependent?

A. — A child living in the veteran's household at the time of his death, who is adopted by the surviving spouse within two years after the veteran's death, can be established as a dependent of the veteran.

Father-daughter relations a key to diet disorders

A study of adolescent girls has led one Connecticut Psychotherapist to believe that a healthy father-daughter relationship may be much more important in preventing eating disorders, such as anorexia nervosa and bulimia, than was once believed.

While the mother's role in her daughter's eating disorder has been well-documented, Margo Maine, Ph.D., assistant clinical director of Newington Children's Hospital's Eating Disorder Service, says that "eating disordered women reveal a consistent pattern of paternal distance." In her study of 39 anorexic adolescent girls, thirty-six (or 92 percent) characterized their relationship with their fathers as distant and felt their fathers were self-absorbed and incapable of dealing with feelings. The girls all tended to have low self-esteem and were more sensitive to "negative cultural influences such as the drive for thinness and view emaciation as beautiful," Maine contends.

Anorexia nervosa and bulimia are complex psychiatric disorders and while the father-daughter relationship is just one factor, Dr. Maine believes that a father can "help his daughter to see herself as okay no matter what she weighs so she'll be less susceptible to cultural influences that could lead her to an eating disorder." She also advises that fathers show "affection appropriate to their daughters' age. Often, just spending time together is enough to show you care," she concludes.

person stopped. They would slow down, look at me like I was some kind of freak, then drive away."

Finally, someone did stop, and help was fetched. "My clothes were soaked, and I was freezing. By the time help arrived my feet were beginning to feel frostbitten. I can look back at this incident now and laugh, even though it wasn't funny at the time. But at that time, as I lay there in the snow, bleeding and crying, I had a hard time understanding why nobody would stop to help me. It was horrible."

The local newspaper did an editorial on the incident, noting that passersby will stop immediately to help an injured animal in the street, but it took numerous cars passing by this young, injured teenage girl before one came to a halt to provide assistance.

She added, "It makes you think about the way human beings treat other human beings."

This young woman was so right. It seems we will give more attention to a stray animal these days than to a fellow human being who's down and out in his luck. Perhaps it's because we can give assistance to that sick cat and not have to worry about "getting involved." When you take the time to help out a human being in need, you tend to feel that you're now, in some way, responsible for him. God help us if we have to feel responsible for somebody who needs a helping hand. Hell, there are plenty of agencies around to help those in some kind of desperate need. No one, it seems these days, wants to admit that there are even people out there who need our help. We want to pretend that everybody is doing fine. That way we can keep a clear conscience. After all, the stock broke 1600 last week. How could anybody in this world actually be down and out?

O.K., let's not be so depressing. Let's for the sake of argument, agree that those of us who need help that desperately do go to agencies to find answers to their problems. Now what's left? We've got a bunch of pretty fortunate folks running around and treating each other worse than we'd ever dream of treating that injured puppy in the street.

If you don't believe me, then consider this: just last week a young guy from Woburn got his throat cut by some punk who didn't like what he had to say. The incident took place in a fancy nightclub, not on a darkened street. The argument wasn't over a drug deal gone sour. It was because one guy bumped another guy on the way to the men's room, and one of them had a chip on his shoulder. So he had a chip on his shoulder. You don't cut a guy's throat in a fancy nightclub just because he's got a chip on his shoulder. But it happened.

O.K., let's lighten things up a bit. Let's talk about the way we treat each other on an everyday basis. A friend of mine, who's going through a divorce, said to me recently, "I hated it when my wife and I finally broke up. We couldn't even be civil with each other. We were more polite to total strangers than we were to each other."

He told me about what happened when it came time to separate the property. "She was bitter, I was bitter. If she knew I wanted something, she made a point to take it or destroy it. I guess I didn't behave much better. I had these beautiful black and white prints of Marilyn Monroe. They were the one thing I wanted to keep out of the split-up. I didn't care what she took, but I wanted those prints. Wouldn't you know it, she took them. Man, was I ticked off."

You see, we are always trying to hurt the ones we love. In some small way, some big way. We'll treat somebody we love with cruelty and disdain, yet we'd never dream of treating, say, a total stranger in the same manner.

Take, for instance, the cop who stops you on the street for driving too fast. You sure as heck wouldn't tell him to take a flying leap when he walked up to your window and asked for your license and registration. "Sorry, officer, but I just don't feel like handing them over this morning, so go fry an egg."

Out would come the cuffs, and off you'd go to jail. See you in September. There are some people we tend to take advantage of, though. We will think nothing of bawling out a cashier in a grocery store or in a department store, if things don't go our way. We feel safe screaming at them. They don't have the power to throw us in jail. And we seldom take the time to think of whether they are having a bad day. Nosirree, my feelings come first and that's all there is to it.

What about those horrible trips to the registry? No one likes to go to the registry. I think I'd rather go to the dentist first. But when you have to go, and you discover they don't take a check to cover your license renewal, and you have to leave your place in line to go to the bank to cash a check, then return to the end of the line again, you may be steaming inside. But you won't say a damn word to the registry cop, because you know better. You see, you want your license, and you want it today. Yet you'll go home and verbally attack your husband or wife the instant he or she walks through the door, simply because you've had a miserable time at the registry. Too bad we weren't programmed to do just the opposite to deal with our frustrations. Say, run to the supermarket, buy a nice hunk of steak, and share a nice meal over candlelight to get over the anger. No, we resort to letting one bad feeling snowball into another.

You know who gets a ration of baloney from a lot of people? Bank tellers. And I've often wondered why. They aren't always responsible for the mistakes that are made on our statements. Those damn computers are really to blame. So why do I inevitably see some creep standing at a teller's window, bawling her out relentlessly for some mistake that she has nothing to do with? I'd never dream of doing that. I'd be afraid she'd tear up my deposit slip and pocket my hard-earned cash.

We tend to be pretty hard on waitresses and bartenders too. They make great targets when we've had a rough day at the office (you see, we'd never dream of telling the boss off, but it's easy to scream at some defenseless waitress who's just trying to make enough money to pay off her school loans and her first new car). I've learned that you don't walk into a bar with a chip on your shoulder (that young fellow from Woburn has probably learned the same lesson, but he nearly lost his life learning it). There's always going to be somebody around who's going to try to knock that chip off.

Gas station attendants and mechanics frequently catch a ration or two. Car owners always blame mechanics for their lemons. Sure, some mechanics are crooks, but I wouldn't let the guy working on my car know that I think he's a crook (actually, my mechanic isn't a crook; in fact, he's terrific). He's likely to make things a lot worse than they already are. Yet I've seen more arguments between car owners and mechanics than between baseball managers and umpires. We just keep on treating our fellow human beings worse than animals.

Then there are those poor souls who try to make a living going from door to door. Talk about treating people worse than animals! Have you ever spoken to a door-to-door salesperson who had any thing good to say about the way people treat them? Sure, I don't like having my Sunday afternoon in front of the Red Sox game disturbed either, but I wouldn't slam a door in somebody's face, or sic my German shepherd on him.

You can truly get a clear picture of what one's personality is like just by the way he treats people. You can tell a woman isn't a lady if she persistently abuses her husband in public. No lady behaves that way. And people who abuse cashiers, bank tellers, waitresses and gas station attendants are clearly obnoxious turkeys. In fact, they may be bordering on wierdo.

The next time somebody accidentally cuts you off on the road, go ahead and feel free to flip him the bird, but remember, it may have been your fault. In which case, you would now be considered tacky by anybody who saw you. I would rather give somebody the benefit of the doubt than feel that I was being tacky. I guess it all boils down to how we want to be treated and how we want people to perceive us.

A former cop from Wilmington summed it up beautifully. He told me, "What goes around, comes around."

They have lost the support of a family living situation."

For these people, with so much to think of, a little help is sometimes needed to get them back on the right track.

The people in question are not part of myriads of people that are getting lost because they need institutionalization and because of incomplete state policies can not get it. They are people like ourselves that just need a little extra help.

Luckily in the Eastern Middlesex region the help is out there through the Sponsor Home Program, in North Reading.

Run by Rapp, and Case Management Supervisor Dale Dydo, the program matches homeowners with people who need this extra help, and then provides support services for both the homeowner and the client.

One important point about the program that Rapp and Dydo bring out is that a number of outside services and programs are available "so that the families should not feel they have to be baby sitters."

The route the program likes to take is to find a sponsor family first, and then match them to a client.

According to Rapp and Dydo, "we have a never ending supply of people who need a home and a limited supply of homes."

Residents of North Reading, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, and Melrose, who have additional space in their home or apartments can qualify as a sponsor.

Rapp goes on to say that sponsors do not have to be families, people such as single people and widow's can also qualify.

One thing that is looked for though is that a responsible

MUSICAL ROMANCE

RAP Productions will stage "Lovers Now and Then," a musical romance, for the benefit of the East Middlesex Association for Retarded Citizens. Written and directed by Frederick T. McCarthy, Lovers features over half a century of the finest show tunes from the heyday of Vaudeville to the present.

The play will be held Friday, February 21, at the Stoneham Town Hall Auditorium. Curtain time is at 7:30 P.M. and tickets are available for a $7.00 donation at Pottle Florist, 547 Main Street, Melrose or from EMARC employees. A portion of all proceeds will go to EMARC which services the towns of Melrose, Stoneham, Wakefield, Reading, and North Reading.

For further information call 438-7825.

MOTHERS OF TWINS

The North Suburban Mothers of Twins will hold their next monthly meeting on Friday, February 21 rather than on the usual Tuesday. This month the special night will be held at the Wakefield Bowladrome in an attempt at a way of beating the winter blues.

If you are a mother or grandmother of twins, triplets, etc., and live in any of the surrounding North Suburban cities, you are invited. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. The Bowladrome is located at 92 Water Street in Wakefield.

For further information, please contact Leah Korba, P.O. Box 201, Wakefield, Ma. 01880 or call 233-0408.

SUGARING OFF

Beat the March blahs with two programs at the Peabody Museum of Salem.

On Saturday, March 1 children can observe Doll's Day, a Japanese Festival, by bringing their dolls to a contest. There will be prizes for the most beautiful, most unusual, best foreign and best loved dolls. 10:30 a.m. Education Room. $1.50 per person, children must be accompanied by an adult. Register by February 21, limited to 40 children. Call 745-1876.

Jon a South Shore maple sugaring walk at the Mousehill Wildlife Sanctuary in the Peabody Museum's March day trip. The trip includes lunch at Foxboro's historic Lafayette House, an inn built in 1784. Bus leaves the museum at 9 a.m., returns by 3 p.m. Members, $20, non-members, $25. Register by February 26, call 745-1876.

TOGETHER

"Working Together", a forum for educators, leaders of community based organizations, human service agencies, cultural institutions and others will be held at the Lynn Teacher's Union Hall in Lynn on Wednesday, March 26, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The forum will help participants build and strengthen community partnerships. The workshop is free but is limited to 50 participants. Participants will learn about a range of partnership models and explore common problems and issues. Free informational packets will be given out. The forum is co-sponsored by the Bureau of Student, Community and Adult Services of the Department of Education and the Center for Organizational and Community Development of the University of Massachusetts. For more information, or to pre-register, contact Partnerships, 225 Furcolo Hall, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Ma. 01003.

SUCCESSFUL RELATIONSHIPS AFTER DIVORCE

When an old relationship ends, some people are afraid of failing in a new one. Larry Burton, an experienced family therapist, will address these issues in a free lecture, entitled, "Making Relationships Work After Divorce," which will be held at Riverside Family Institute, 259 Walnut Street, Room 14, Newtonville, on March 10 at 8 P.M. No pre-registration is required. For more information, please call 964-6933.

NEW BUSINESS OWNER

A special series of non-credit programs and seminars for the new business manager or owner will take place at Merrimack College.

Beginning on Monday, Feb. 24, the Merrimack College Office of Special Programs will offer a four-session program on the essentials of "Management for Everyone." The program is designed to give new managers an opportunity to develop the essential skills necessary to manage effectively.

The four sessions, taking place once a month, will cover the basic principles, theories and techniques of good management (Feb. 24); leadership and motivation (March 17); planning and goal-setting (April 21); and time and stress management (May 19). Each session will take place from 6:30 to 9:30 P.M.

In April, Merrimack College will also offer a six-week program on "How to Start Your Own Business." A day-long workshop has been planned for Saturday, April 12 on starting and maintaining a business in the home.

sions on "Management for Everyone" is $25 per session or $75 for all four programs; a $40 registration fee is asked for the Business Management Skills course.

Further information on these and other special non-credit programs at Merrimack is available from the Office of Special Programs, Merrimack College, Division of Continuing Education, North Andover, Ma. 01845, telephone 683-1175.

FATHERHOOD

Boston University Fatherhood Project — Spring workshops begin March 15 for fathers, new parents, dual earner/co-parents, step-parents, single parents, and parents with joint custody. For information and registration call 353-4227 or write the Fatherhood Project at 605 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Ma. 02215.

WOMEN'S TECHNICAL

Women, are you interested in a high tech career? Come to an open house at the Women's Technical Institute in Boston. Meet graduates of the electronics and drafting programs. Tour the computer labs, meet instructors, and find out if a career as an electronic technician, field service engineer, or technical drafter is for you. Call the Women's Technical Institute at 266-2243 for more information or just stop by Thursday, February 27, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. The Institute is located at 1255 Boylston Street, Boston.

DICKENS AT COLLINS

Wednesday, March 19 at 7 p.m. The Tony Award-winning Guthrie Theatre will present their interpretation of Dickens' comic and villainous Great Expectations at Andover's J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts. Tickets are: $18.50 and $16, available at the Collins Center box office, Shawshen Road, off Rts. 133 and 93 in Andover. For further information or to charge by phone, call (617) 470-1905.

SWIM PROGRAMS

Because swimming is one of the best therapeutic exercises for people with disabilities, Easter Seals is again offering two swim programs locally. A swim program for pre-schoolers with special needs will be held at the Malden High School and a swim program for children and adults with disabilities will be held at the Melrose YMCA.

The series of swim classes, conducted by a water safety instructor, are designed to help swimmers increase confidence in the water while having fun at the same time. All Easter Seal swim programs are free of charge.

For further information about the Easter Seal swim programs, please contact the Mass. Easter Seal Society in Boston at 482-3370.

OUTGROWN YOUR OLD BED?

Today, there are 5,000 women, men and children homeless in Boston; in Massachusetts, 10,000. Among those trying to help is the Donations Assistance Program at the Massachusetts Coalition For the Homeless.

We provide beds and other furniture to local shelters for the homeless and to families leaving shelters for their own apartments. Often families have lost their furniture and need help to start again. You can help.

You can help by bringing urgently needed beds of all sizes (mattresses, frames and/or boxsprings) and other furniture to a collection center nearest your own home. Just call 298-6311 to find out your neighborhood collection center and to arrange a convenient delivery time.

With so little effort, you can make a big difference.

Your donation will mean that a family can settle into their new home with some of the necessities and comforts of home. Thank you for caring and sharing.

Middlesex Fells

Periodically, as well, local politicians in communities with land in the Fells propose that it be developed to provide tax revenues. And, despite the beauty of the lands included in the present Fells — the reservation's history also reflects a regrettable number of missed opportunities, according to Alan Fisher, author of "Country Walks Near Boston" (1976).

The prospect from the Bear Hill observatory tower in Stoneham affords glimpses of the ocean and a fine panorama of Boston's skyline, and "shows almost unbroken woodlands," according to Fisher, "yet the Fells Reservation is actually a patchwork. The large tan structure to the southeast is the New England Memorial Hospital, built within the reservation on a parcel of land which the Metropolitan Park Commission failed to acquire at the outset.

"The Commissioners also did not purchase Medford's town farm, which penetrated deep within the reservation and has since been fenced off and used for a high school. Similarly and more seriously, the land bordering the reservoirs to the southwest is owned by the town of Winchester and is closed to the public."

More recently, the MDC has constructed a radio tower not far from the Fells bird sanctuary adjacent to Stoneham's Doleful Pond and declined, according to local residents, to acquire Buckman's Pond and a former stable, which also abut person is home a good portion of the time.

Sponsor Homes

Once a potential provider is found, a staff person will visit the home to explain the program, evaluate the home and see if it could be a suitable match for someone in need.

When a match is made, the individual and the provider meet and begin a one month trial period to see if the match is satisfactory.

It is during this period that one of nine case workers under Dydo become assigned to the family and client.

The case workers work very closely with all the clients and host families.

Although each of the case workers have their own specialties, they are also aware of all available services.

According to Dydo, the case workers, act as advocates for the clients, but also work with families, and do a lot of visits to support the families.

To be a support family, the sponsor must be able to provide, at minimum a bedroom for the client, with access to a bath and kitchen.

Rapp says of the sponsor families, "they don't have to be the Waltons." She goes on to say that they should be people who "can reach out to people, but can set limits."

The sponsor will have to provide some personal support and encouragement to the individual and occasionally assist him with learning a particular skill such as bus travel, remembering to take medication, or even some simple cooking.

Rapp said "our goal is to have some families that would serve as a stepping stone from six months to a year, and then the client can move on."

She goes on to say other families are needed that could provide a permanent home.

In either case Rapp explains that if a problem occurs the client can be removed.

It is not an all give program either, as the client provides rent to the sponsor home, and the sponsor receives the satisfaction of really having helped someone through life.

In some cases, Rapp reports some close bonds have been formed with the client and the sponsor that have gone well beyond there stay together.

One client that lived with a family on a full time basis was able to move on after delivering a baby. In that case, the bonds were so good the family became the godparents of the new child.

Other satisfying cases include an elderly couple that were able to get back on their own after staying for a while with a sponsor family.

Rapp explained that some of the clients might be able to live in a boarding house when reentering society, but there are only four of them in the area that are licensed.

One of the problems with a boarding house is the lack of control over the other tenants and the temptation might be to great on a person just ending a battle with a drug or alcohol related problem to return to the source of the problem.

Rapp said, "boarding house owners have said they would rather have our clients, because they can call a case manager and get immediate response (if a problem arises)."

For more information on the program, write or call Sponsor Home Program, Eastern Middlesex Area Office, Department of Mental Health, Lowell Road, North Reading, Mass. 01864. The telephone number is 727-9550, ext. 683.

Doleful Pond.

"It has even been suggested," according to Fisher, "that Bear Hill, located in the northern section of the Fells, is a remnant of what was once a volcano."

Ancient volcano or not, the rocks atop Bear Hill have recently erupted, not by nature's means, but by man's, for the construction of a giant, cylindrical, cement water tank at the very foot of the Bear Hill tower.

A hike up Bear Hill today reveals that some of the fallout from this latest project, undertaken to supply better water pressure for the town's northern residents, has been the obvious destruction of timber and wildlife, the residue of various building supplies tossed in the woods, the dumping of cement culverts and a pair of giant tractor tires at the foot of Bear Hill itself, and easier access and better travelling conditions for prohibited motor vehicles to get into the reservation.

Of course one way to forget the worries of the potential and actual destruction of precious and irreplaceable woodland is to walk the Fells themselves. Windfalls from last autumn's Hurricane Gloria, and an apparent diminishing ability to maintain trails and woodlands has led to an unexpected bonus: a slightly wilder, unkempt Fells, which may in some small

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

To mis-spell a name is bad, but to get the whole name wrong is almost unforgivable. The right name of the radio program producer of a major station is Gayle McEachern. She graduated from Woburn High School and although I have never met Gayle personally, I just know she is beautiful. I have talked to her many times and her charismatic friendly voice proves she is a wonderful person. A man walked into a Woburn bank and shouted, "did anyone lose a roll of bills with a rubber band around it?" Three people came forward and said that they did. "Good," said the samaritan, "here, I found your rubber band!"

Folks, a butterfly is the second most beautiful thing with wings, — the first is MONEY!

My wife Kathy said that she never talks about herself at parties because the people do that after she leaves. Frank Guiliano went to Italy last summer and visited Venice. He rode a Gondola when he noticed a sign on a bridge over a canal that said, "Ducka your Heada, Low, Low Bridgida." One has to be careful before embarking on the sea of matrimony because that's where I was "hooked" with my own line.

My dear friend, Ellie McCune of Tewksbury said to her husband Chris, "I dreamt last night that you bought me a luxuriously beautiful mink coat." "That's nice," replied Chris. "In your next dream wear it in good health!" It was so windy yesterday that Michael Curran's chicken laid the same egg three times.

Everyone I guess has a favorite song — I have two, especially when sung by my Uncle John Shea of N. Reading. They are "Galway Bay" and "If my soul should pass through Ireland on it's weary journey home." If hearing those songs doesn't bring tears to a person's eyes, maybe nothing will, not even peeling onions. Uncle John is very outspoken. He told a politician, "I wouldn't vote for you if you were the angel Gabriel." The truth hurt when the man running for office replied "If I were the angel Gabriel you wouldn't be in my constituency!"

In a sub shop in Stoneham band-aids are kept in the refrigerator in case of a "cold-cut." The eminent bugologist, John Nowak, after many years of research has proven that eating bananas are good for the eyesight. He asks unbelievers this question, "have you ever seen a monkey wearing glasses?" A seaman is a man who makes his living on the water but never touches the stuff on shore.

Pope John XXIII was probably a golfer, allowing people to attend church on Saturday, leaving Sunday free to play golf. I missed a hole in one by four strokes yesterday. I said to Arthur Marino of Stoneham, "you can't hold up the game looking for your golf ball in the rough." "I'm not looking for the ball I've found that, I'm looking for my club."

Angus McTavish, an avid golfer, stopped playing when a funeral cortege was passing a road by the ninth green. Angus stood at attention with his cap on his chest then later resumed playing. At the clubhouse people congratulated him for the respect he showed. "I don't know what was remarkable about what I did, after all I was married to her for 39 years!"

My wife, Kathy watches almost all the soap operas and game shows on TV. The house is

area, yet somehow still manage to find entry.

The demise of the local stable mentioned has also reduced the number of horseback riders within the reservation and helped to stay the erosion of trails which was being caused by horsemen who did not keep to the intended bridle paths but used hiking trails as well.

And for all this, the Fells are still a wonderful place to visit.

As for hiking, the most ambitious trek of all in the Fells is probably to meld the Skyline Trail with the Cross Fells Trail, and touch some of the highest peaks, ranging from Winchester to Malden and Melrose, and including each of the five communities whose land make up the Reservation.

But the most fun is probably just to explore the honeycomb of interlacing trails and wander where the spirit leads. Obtaining a map of the reservation from the MDC or the Friends of the Fells, as well as the Appalachian Mountain Club (AMC) Massachusetts Trail Guide or the Fisher book will enhance your appreciation of these woods. In addition, there are extensive research sources available at local libraries, including legends, tales, mysteries and histories of the Fells.

For the most spectacular views within the reservation, the Rock Circuit Trail, marked with white dots, is a four-mile, three-and-a-half hour hike designed to render "you occasionally breathless — both from the scenery and from the exertion of climbing Boojum, Pinnacle, Black, White and Melrose Rocks. It's a loop trail, bringing you right back to where you started, without repeating yourself — and affords passage through pleasant pine groves, scenic ridges and the northwest shore of Shiner Pool, where I once met a man who had just killed a magnificent hawk.

To reach the Rock Circuit Trail, you can approach from Woodland Road, Medford, opposite the north end of the parking lot of the MDC hockey arena, south of the New England Memorial Hospital.

For the less ambitious, there is the Mini Rock Circuit Trail, taking in the best high points of the Rock Circuit Trail and some fine sections of other trails, but avoiding many rough spots. Marked by yellow dots, with a hiking distance of 2.8 miles, it takes an average of two hours to complete.

Once bitten, you may find you want to hike every trail in the Fells — I have — and you will feel the excitement of history surge in your veins along with appreciation of the beauty of the land.

Fisher's book, available through the AMC, provides a welcome and informative companion to your hikes and

The mattress workers are accused of feather-bedding. It's my job to vacuum the living room rug on Saturday mornings. My neighbor Diane Sullivan came for a visit, saw what I was doing and shouted "Eureka!" I looked at her and said "you don't smell so hot yourself."

George Burns is over 90 but he is still in show business. A motion picture studio wanted George to sign a 10 year contract but he refused saying "I'll sign for five years who knows whether that studio will still be around in 10 years?"

Mu cousin, Dennis Tully is married to Kate but is in love with a girl name Edith. Dennis was informed by his wife that he "couldn't have his KATE and EDITH too!" You know folks, I've often regretted my speech, but never my silence.

In the wild and wooly west years ago, stealing a horse was a major offense and the penalty was a suspended sentence. The convicted person was "hung." One day Grandpa John was led to the gallows at dawn, as the invited guest of honor at a necktie party. But lo and behold someone had stolen the rope during the night. John dropped to his knees and offered a silent prayer of thanks then sprang to his feet and with arms up-raised shouted "Glory be, no noose is good noose."

The beautiful Mary Gail MacMaster is a school teacher. She asked Johnny McCurtin of Wilmington to stand up and tell the class about the great explorer, Balboa. Johnny who is as bright as a new penny began by saying, "Balboa on his journey west came upon a great big body of water so he immediately radioed King Ferdinand and told him of his discovery. "Where is it, be more specific." "That's it, it's the Specific Ocean," Balboa shouted.

adds to your Fells-love. You may find yourself exploring the old bear's den, wandering the sheepfold, walking the old track that used to carry the "Tuneville" trolley from Stoneham Square to Boston, or speculating on which out-cropping is "Cheese Rock" — so named by John Winthrop, first governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, while scouting the area himself, "because when they went to eat, they had only cheese (the Governor's man forgetting, for haste, to put up some bread."

Your imagination may carry you back, even further, to the devastation of the great Indian tribe of the Massachusetts, begun by slaughter and ending in plague, according to Burlington historian John "Ed" Folgelberg. The massacres, Folgelberg wrote, were committed by "the Tarrantine from the far-away Maine coast — (which) overran the whole area from the Kennebec to the Charles.

"Thus the power of the Massachusetts Bay Indians was broken and Nanepahemet, the Great Sachem, retreated with the remnants of his people to the high grounds of the Middlesex Fells where he fortified himself with a palisaded fort.

"But even had the Bay Indians a chance to recoup and thrive once more this was eliminated by a plague which swept over the area. As (Nathaniel) Morton so graphically relates:

"The hand of God fell heavily upon them with such a mortal streak that they died in heaps — the living being (as it seems) not able to bury the dead. They were left for the crows, kites, and vermin to prey upon. And the bones and skulls upon the several places of their habitations made such a spectacle after my coming into these parts, that I travelled in the forest here the Massachusetts, it seemed to me a new Golgotha."

Like the Massachusetts, the land they once inhabited and prized is not invincible. Hike the trails of the little patch of public woodland now left. Observe the encroachments of civilization. Savor the land's history, from pre-colonial times to the present.

Then decide if what little remains ought to be developed — or simply left to the relative peace of fish, fox and crow.

Haggerty a hockey tri-captain

Sean R. Haggerty of Stoneham is serving as a tri-captain of the Austin Prep varsity hockey team this winter. Haggerty, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Robert F. Haggerty of Spring Street, is a senior at the local prep school. He is sharing leadership duties with Thomas Fitzgerald of Billerica and Robert Jordan of Lynn. They are leading the Cougars to an outstanding season.

The young Stoneham resident has played hockey for Austin Prep for the past four years, three of them on the varsity level. He has been on the Hockey Night in Boston Team Massachusetts. Haggerty is also a stand-out football player for Austin, and was named a Central Catholic League All-Star, Boston Herald Division Four All-Star, and the team's Defensive Most Valuable Player.

At Austin Prep Haggerty is active also in varsity baseball.

'A Midsummer Night's Dream'

A Midsummer Night's Dream, a new ballet choreographed for the Boston Ballet by Bruce Wells, Associate Artistic Director, will have its world premiere at The Wang Center for the Performing Arts, March 5-9. Completing the program will be Balanchine's Capriccio for Piano and Orchestra.

A ballet is two acts. A Midsummer Night's Dream will be set to all of the incidental music by Mendelssohn written for Shakespeare's classic tale of mismatched lovers, magic spells, mischievous fairies and happy endings. The best known numbers from the Mendelssohn score are the Overture, Nocturne, Scherzo, and Wedding March. Additional music will be from Mendelssohn's "Fair Melusina Overture".

The action of the ballet takes place in a forest. It is the tale of four star-crossed lovers whose affairs are further confused by the magic of Oberon and Titania, King and Queen of the fairies, and a group of amateur actors rehearsing a play in the woods. The Winsor School chorus, soprano and alto soloists, and 30 children from the Boston School of Ballet will perform in the production.

A Midsummer Night's Dream will feature new sets by Louis Folden and costumes by Edward Baker. Louis Folden won the Helen Hayes award for stage design for work done at the Folger Theater in Washington, D.C. One of the set pieces — Titania's leafy bower — is being built in Las Vegas by craftsmen experienced in creating sets by extravagant casino spectacles and the Disney movie studio. Edward Baker is Resident Designer for the Boston Ballet.

A Midsummer Night's Dream is a popular ballet theme that has been choreographed to many times before by such well known choreographers as Ashton, Balanchine, Spoerle and Neumier. Mr. Wells created an earlier version of A Midsummer Night's Dream when he was resident choreographer of the Connecticut Ballet. Mr. Wells joined the Boston Ballet in 1979 as resident choreographer, teacher and principal dancer. Prior to that he had been a soloist with the New York City Ballet. Mr. Wells is noted internationally for his choreographic talent.

Capriccio for Piano and Orchestra is the second section of Balanchine's Jewels, first premiered by the New York City Ballet in 1967 with dancers dressed as jewels — emeralds, rubies and diamonds, respectively — for each section. Capriccio for Piano and Orchestra is a free-spirited, jazzy interpretation of its Stravinsky score. It was premiered by the Boston Ballet in 1984.

The inspiration for the full length ballet came from Mr. Balanchine's meeting with Claude Arpels, the jeweler. The "Rubies" section of the ballet is arranged for a leading couple, a soloist, and a corps de ballet of women and men. The couple and the soloist alternate in leading the ensemble.

Ticket prices are $28.50, $23.50, $19.50, $15.50 and $38.50. (Dress circle prices include a $10 tax deductible contribution to The Boston Ballet.) All prices include a $.50 Wang Center restoration fee. To order tickets, call Chargit, 542-3600

Snow blowers friend or foe?

For many years the snow blower has been around to make the back breaking task of removing snow a lot easier. Unfortunately these machines cause many injuries each year. People are attempting to unclog them using their hands or feet, resulting in amputations or mutilations. The machines on the market today are becoming more powerful and are running at higher speeds to keep clogging to a minimum. This means that trying to unclog one of these newer machines improperly will probably result in a worse injury than an older machine would have caused.

In any case, whenever a snow blower gets clogged DO NOT put hands or feet in any part of the machine to dislodge whatever is causing the trouble. The impeller is a snow blower, (the part that actually throws the snow), revolves at many thousands of revolutions per minute, and very serious injuries will result. If the snow blower should clog, shut off the engine and wait for all moving parts to stop, then remove whatever is causing the problem. It is also advisable not to use a stick or other object to unclog a running machine. The stick or whatever else being used is likely to be caught by the impeller and thrown back out, with possible injuries to eyes.

Be sure not to refuel a hot engine. Snow blower engines, even when doing their cold job, can get quite hot and cause a fire if refueled without letting it cool somewhat. A snow blower should also be kept in good operating condition. A machine that is kept tuned up and well maintained will cause less problems, be easier to start and less frustrating to use. Another useful tip when using a snow blower is to spray silicon on it. Aerosol cans of silicon are available at most hardware stores. When applied to any snow contacting area of the snow blower, the silicon will reduce sticking and clogging considerably. A coating should be applied for each storm.

Using a snow blower can save a lot of work, but make sure to use common sense and safety precautions also. This information is provided by the Middlesex County Cooperative Extension Office.

Red Cross orientation

The Eastern Middlesex Region of the Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay will hold an Orientation Program for its volunteers and prospective volunteers on Thursday, February 20th, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Winchester office, 39 Church Street, Winchester.

The topics to be covered include a brief history of the American Red Cross, an overview of the Massachusetts Bay

Chapter structure, a description of the various services and a discussion of the role of the volunteer.

Reservations would be appreciated, but are not absolutely necessary. Anybody interested in learning more about the Red Cross is welcome.

To reserve a seat or for more information, please call 665-1351 or 729-2300.

Doctors work today for a perfect heart tomorrow

By Linda St. Thomas
Smithsonian News Service

People don't remember the first person to use an artificial kidney machine or to wear an artificial leg, but they do remember Barney Clark. The artificial heart, whether seen as a mechanical miracle or an expensive experiment, has taken center stage in the world of medical technology.

Today, more than three years after the first permanent artificial heart was implanted in Clark, researchers are improving the plastic-and-metal devices and continuing to test them in animals. Medical engineers are designing new models that would be totally implanted in the body, freeing the patient from cumbersome machinery. And several cardiovascular surgeons are ready to consider patients as potential candidates for the Jarvik-7 or other compressed-air-driven hearts.

Meanwhile, the public and the medical community have begun to question the value of a procedure that, thus far, has resulted in serious medical complications for the patients.

Amidst this rapidly changing technology and public debate, the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C., continues to collect mechanical hearts and related materials such as pumping devices, heart aviator Charles Lindbergh, spurred by his sister-in-law's cardiovascular disease, began working with Nobel Prize winner Alexis Carrel on a perfusion pump. The Lindbergh-Carrel pump could keep an animal's organs alive outside the body by and sheep in the 1960s, including a silicone rubber heart designed by Kolff's team, then at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, and a Teflon-coated steel heart developed by Dr. Yuhiko Nose of the Cleveland Clinic. In 1967, Dr. Denton Cooley of Houston's Texas Heart Institute implanted the first temporary total artificial heart into a patient awaiting a transplant.

Dr. Clifford Kwan-Gett, one of Kolff's Utah colleagues, ushered in a new era in 1972 by designing a mechanical heart with an innovative flexible pumping diaphragm. It kept a calf alive for two weeks. Like its modern-day successors, the heart had two independent pumps and was powered by a washing-machine-sized electrical machine that sent a flow of air to the pump or heart. Dr. Robert Jarvik designed his first heart models in the early 1970s when he was a medical student at the University of Utah. The Jarvik hearts, modifications of the Kwan-Gett models, offered a better fit in the chest cavity, a larger stroke volume (more blood per beat) and a stronger, multi-layered diaphragm. The now-famous Jarvik-7, first implanted in 1982 in Barney Clark, is smaller than its predecessors and is powered by a 250-pound "Utahdrive" system or by the portable "Heimes Driver."

The "Utah 100," currently being tested in animals at Utah's Artificial Heart Laboratory, is smaller than the Jarvik-7 and valves, oxygenating machines, pacemakers and apparatus used in open-heart surgery.

"Our cardiology collection illustrates many of the conflicts and issues in 20th-century medical technology," Barbara Melosh, curator in the museum's Medical Sciences Division, says.

Among these are such questions as: How far should physicians go to sustain life? Should physicians consider questions about the quality of life for patients tethered to machinery? Who decides which patient receives an artificial heart or a human transplant? Should so much money be spent on artificial hearts when those funds could be directed toward preventive medicine programs? Should artificial hearts be used as a permanent replacement of the natural heart or as a temporary measure to keep patients alive until a human heart becomes available for transplant?

It has taken decades of research to reach the point of asking such ethical questions. Since 1964, the National Institutes of Health has allocated about $200 million for research on artificial hearts and related materials and even more money for education programs. Despite these efforts, heart disease continues to be the leading cause of death in the nation, claiming the lives of about 770,000 persons in 1985.

Work on a mechanical substitute for the heart began with a search for ways to circulate the blood, without damaging it, to the body's organs and tissues. In 1930, supplying their blood vessels with nutrient fluid. Once jokingly called a "robot heart," the glass pump is now on display in the Smithsonian museum, as is the later Sewell heart-lung pump, made, incredibly, from an Erector set.

In 1946, Dutch physician Dr. Willem Kolff, who was to become a pioneer in the artificial-heart field, first developed an artificial kidney machine using an old bathtub and thin cellophane sausage casings. The jury-rigged dialysis machine kept a 67-year-old woman alive for many years. Kolff joined the Cleveland Clinic in 1950 and participated in the development of the heart-lung machine, coronary-artery surgery and the intra-aortic balloon pump that assists a weakened natural heart.

The search for a replacement for the natural heart faced formidable problems. The device had to replace two of the heart's four chambers — the left and right ventricles. (The left ventricle does 80 percent of the pumping.) The "total artificial heart" had to beat 40 million times a year and pump about seven quarts of blood a minute. In addition, it had to fit snugly inside the chest and be made of materials that would not cause infection, damage the blood or induce clotting.

The first breakthrough came in 1957 when Kolff and his colleague, Dr. Tetsu Akutsu, implanted an electrically powered polyvinyl heart into a dog. The animal only lived for 90 minutes, but the quest was on in earnest.

Numerous hearts were developed and implanted in calves

An experimental total artificial heart, powered electrically rather than by compressed air, would enable patients to be mobile.

Dr. William DeVries (left), the surgeon famous for implanting four artificial hearts, beginning with Barney Clark in 1982, and Dr. Allan Lansing, medical director of Humana Heart Institute in Louisville, Ky., pose with the Jarvik-7 artificial heart.

A perfect heart

oblong-shaped to fit patients weighing as little as 110 pounds. The Utah 100 — it pumps 100 milliliters or 3 fluid ounces of blood with every beat — "could be ready for clinical testing in humans in about three years," says Dr. Donald Olsen, director of Utah's Institute for Biomedical Engineering.

Today, Olsen, Jarevik (now president of Symbion Inc., in Utah) and researchers at Penn State University, the Cleveland Clinic and the Texas Heart Institute are working on several approaches to the total artificial heart. One goal is the refinement of the compressed-air-driven heart that has kept recipients alive, but not without complications such as blood clots, strokes, infections and kidney disorders. Because the life span of the device itself is unknown and because its use requires patients to be attached to external machines, the artificial heart is seen by some physicians as a temporary device for patients awaiting human-heart transplants. However, the permanent-artificial-heart program continues with Dr. William DeVries of Humana Heart Institute International in Louisville, Ky., and several other surgeons around the country who have Food and Drug Administration approval to perform implantations. The program's proponents claim that human transplants can never solve the heart transplant problem because of the scarcity of donors and the age and health restrictions on patients considered for human hearts. About 400 transplants occurred last year, but according to an NIH advisory committee report, as many as 35,000 persons each year could have their lives extended with mechanical hearts. Kolff, now 74, has been exploring the possibility of making artificial hearts by machine in the event that they become more widely used as either permanent replacements or temporary "bridges." Such devices, Kolff predicts, could be made inexpensively in several hours compared to 13 days required to produce today's handmade hearts. A long-range goal of artificial-heart research is a fully implantable, electric model powered by compact units worn on a belt or in an over-the-shoulder case. In Utah, Olsen and his team are working on portable electric hearts as well as on a new heart that has no valves or diaphragms and that works by spinning much the way a centrifugal pump operates. In other words, Olsen explains, "it has no parts that can wear out." Kolff, for one, is optimistic about the future of the artificial heart program. "We have not done badly so far," he says. "We have identified two major problems in the eight implants to date — poor fit and blood clots — and we are working to solve these problems." Kolff compares the heart investigation to his own work 40 years ago with kidney dialysis machines: It was his 17th patient who lived because of the artificial kidney he invented. The first 16 patients died. In his view, the artificial heart was successful on the fifth attempt, when a man was kept alive for eight days with a Jarvik-7 before receiving the human transplant he lives with today.

Tidbits

A piece of beech barkcarved "D Boon," near Kingsport, Tenn., is thought to be one authentic legacy among many bark forgeries of the famous name of Daniel Boone across the wilderness Boone explored in the late 18th century, says National Geographic.

The United States 1984 contemporary Christmas stamp was designed by 9-year-old Danny LaBocchetta of Richmond Hill, N.Y., in only 20 minutes, says National Geographic World.

This Penn State University electrically-powered artificial heart is being tested in calves. Its portable power source frees a patient from bulky machinery, but its use in humans is five to 10 years away.

V.A. Questions and Answers

- Q. — If I send original documents to the VA will they return them?
A. — Yes. The VA will make a copy and return the original to you. Please identify the document as an original and request its return. Please include your VA claim number with any correspondence.
- Q. — I was released from active duty in 1970. My entitlement to education benefits expired. Will my home loan entitlement also expire?
A. — No. Your home loan entitlement is good until you decide to use it.
- Q. — Can I use my VA home loan guaranty to purchase a duplex?
A. — Yes. One veteran's entitlement may be used to purchase up to a maximum of 4 family units, one of which is to be occupied by the veteran. Two eligible veterans may combine their entitlement to purchase up to a maximum of 6 units.

Blood pressure program

High blood pressure, or hypertension, affects 37 million Americans. The most common course of treatment traditionally has been anti-hypertensive drugs. But a recent study by researchers at the New England Deaconess Hospital, published in the American Journal of Public Health, shows that weight loss may be used as a primary therapy to reduce high blood pressure in obese adults.

Of the 160 hypertensive patients enrolled in the study, 108 lowered their blood pressure to a normal level following weight loss. Participants were placed on a low calorie diet and followed an integrated program of nutrition education, behavior modification, and exercise. One half of the people in the study lost 40 pounds or more, and 84 percent of those who lost weight had maintained this weight loss after six months.

Headed by George Blackburn, M.D., the team of Deaconess researchers now are planning a follow-up study on the relationship between hypertension and diet among overweight people. Adults between the ages of 25 and 55, who are at least 35-40 pounds overweight and have high blood pressure, are needed to participate in this medically supervised program.

The program will run for approximately two-and-a-half years, and is supported by the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute. Participants will be charged a minimal fee to help offset the costs of care. For more information, call The Nutrition Coordinating Center at New England Deaconess Hospital, 732-9295.

HERE'S A "DREAM" PART-TIME POSITION FOR A TELEMARKETING PRO!

Training our Telemarketing Team, 25 hours per week!

Homemaker, student or retiree...if you've got a solid record of achievement in telemarketing, we've got a position where you can shine! You'll be training telemarketers in sales of extended merchandise service agreements to customers who've already purchased a major appliance or home electronics from Lechmere... a worthwhile service to receptive people, with no "hard-sell" or cold calls. You'll work in a bright, modern setting with 24-hour security and free parking...conveniently-located near the Route 128/93 interchange.

And, even though this is a part-time position, you'll qualify for a superior benefits package, including health and dental insurance, paid holidays, vacations and a generous store discount...in addition to a highly-competitive salary.

If you're a bright, highly-motivated telemarketing professional who would enjoy teaching your skills to others, please contact us at (617) 935-8320 ext. 2691 or 2684

FULL-TIME Seasonal Data Transcribers

Make 1986 A Better Year

The IRS's Andover Service Center is looking for Data Transcribers. These are well-paying positions and require no experience—all you have to do is:

1. Take a Civil Service Test, a Data Transcriber Test and attend our 40-hour paid Data Training Program.
2. Pass the tests and complete the training, and you're eligible to be hired as a Data Transcriber at $220 per week plus incentive pay, based on performance. (50% of all data employees receive incentive pay, every payday.)
3. The Civil Service Test also qualifies you for clerical positions.

NOTE: Applicants hired for these positions become our main source for permanent year round positions.

These positions are available now. So don't wait. Come in this Saturday. Day and night shifts will be available. The IRS Andover Service Center offers you a generous benefits package, including annual and sick leave, paid holidays, 10% night differential and plenty of free parking. U.S. Citizenship required.

GSA Surplus property is a good value

Amid the flurry of post-holiday sales many consumers may be unaware the federal government can be one of the better places to shop for good values on a range of products.

The U.S. General Services Administration, the federal government's multi-billion-dollar business manager, conducts about 1,000 surplus property sales nationwide every year featuring items no longer needed by the government.

Sale merchandise includes practical items that are useful around the house, such as furniture, appliances, laundry and cleaning supplies and equipment, paint, hand tools, electronic gear and photo equipment. Some sales feature more exotic items, like electric generators, polar ice breakers and portable missile launching pads.

Information about GSA government surplus property sales is free - and there is no charge to participate. To obtain the necessary information, call or write: Surplus Sales, Federal Supply Service Bureau, U.S. General Services Administration, Post Office and Court House, Boston, MA. 02109. Tel. 223-3186.

COMING ATTRACTIONS has a little something for everyone. But we don't hit every happening and could use your help in digging out events of interest to all. If you know of something, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. We'll recommend that you get the next portable missile pad for sale.

Alcoholism board needs volunteers

The Eastern Middlesex Clinic in Wakefield is looking for local residents to serve on its Alcoholism Advisory Board. Initially, the Board was established to insure community input in developing the agency's alcoholism program. The Advisory Board was active in involvement in drafting a proposal to the Division of Alcoholism. Last fall Eastern Middlesex was awarded a Division of Alcoholism contract to provide individual or group treatment to people concerned about their own or a loved one's drinking.

Alice Cerino, the director of the alcoholism program, is looking to expand the Alcoholism Advisory Board with members who have interest or expertise in the areas of fundraising, community education, and public relations. Anyone interested in becoming an advisory board member should contact Ms. Cerino at the clinic (246-2010).

Current Alcoholism Advisory Board Members are: Mrs. Kathy Jones, a former teacher from Reading; Mrs. Kathleen Ericson, a nursing instructor at Lawrence Memorial Hospital in Medford; John O'Brien, Wakefield Police Drug Office; Mrs. Eileen Trainor, President of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Eastern Middlesex; Robert Logue of Bay Colony Health Services in Woburn; Mrs. Janice Thorup, Head Nurse at the Central Hospital Alcoholism Program; and Mr. George Wetmore of Stoneham.

Eastern Middlesex Human Services is a multi-service agency that was established almost a quarter of a century ago to provide care to the residents of Wakefield, Stoneham, Melrose, Reading and North Reading.

SOLAR HEAT IS FREE

But only when your system is performing properly. A Solar System may appear to be working at 100% but periodic maintenance is a worthwhile investment. Glycol checks for PH balance and freeze protection, controller and circulation pump test along with weather tight integrity are just a few of the checks we do on a service call. You made a wise investment in your Solar System, now let it operate at peak efficiency so you get maximum savings.

Cranes for peace

One bicycle and two friends who want to ride it; one superhero and three parties in conflict; one world and several world leaders. These are just some of the situations explored in depth by fifth and sixth graders at the Unitarian Universalist Church in Reading as part of their involvement in Reading's Million Cranes for Peace Project.

Following the peace syllabus available in the Children's Room of the Reading Public Library, the students spent six weeks considering such topics as peace and violence, peace-making, sources of conflict, interdependence and designing what kind of future they would like. Starting by defining peace as "a time when there's no fighting" or "a time when I'm quiet with my friends," they stretched their concepts of peacetime to include "a time when people make good things happen."

The Million Cranes for Peace Project is a consciousness-raising effort to educate young and old that peacemaking is a rich and creative process, and that caring people of all ages working together can make peace possible.

The only town in Massachusetts working on this project as a town, Reading will be the site of a townwide cranimaking day in the spring, at which time interested residents will fold and string origami cranes symbolic of peace. One thousand cranes will then be sent to Sen. Edward Kennedy and Rep. Edward Markey as concrete reminders that Reading's citizens have carefully studied and are willing to work for peace in every area of their lives.

Through a study of specific situations, such as two friends with only one bicycle or several friends trying to decide where to go on an outing, the fifth and sixth graders brainstormed until they came up with solutions which created win-win situations to please everyone.

"The kids are very aware, and already have very keen observations on how society works and how they think it might work better. I'm concerned when I hear about children being overwhelmed at the thought of the problems in the world, so I hope that these kids came away from our discussion feeling that the individual's voice and actions are important, that the adults around them are concerned about and involved with these problems, and that there are avenues of action open to them as they grow older," asserts Anne Mark, who designed and taught the course.

One goal of the classes and of Reading's unique approach to the national Million Cranes for Peace Project is to emphasize, through education, that we can all control the future. Folding cranes in the spring is the symbolic gesture meant to grow out of the important understanding that everyone can, and must, become involved in the process of peacemaking in the world — and at home.

For more information on how you or your group can be a part of the Million Cranes for Peace Project, contact coordinators Anne Mark at 944-8769 or Phyllis Nissen at 944-9562.

New book helps find records

In this age of bureaucratic documentation, everyone has need of copies of records of birth, death, marriage, or divorce. An application for benefits from the Veterans Administration or Social Security, a passport or marriage license must have the information contained in these records and sometimes copies of the records themselves.

All these records are stored permanently by municipalities, counties, states and the Federal government.

The Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group, found that there was little uniformity on where the records were available and the costs. In some states, birth records are kept by the city and in others by the county or state. To further complicate matters, often older records are held in a different place than current ones. In addition, the addresses where the records are kept are changed quite often.

The consumer group found many people had difficulty in locating the records they needed. In many cases it was necessary to make expensive long distance calls just to find out where to write, what information was required and how much money to send. For that reason CERC is publishing a book entitled Guide To Locating Vital Documents which contains a state-by-state listing of the addresses and telephone numbers of where each record can be found, the cost of a copy of the document and sample form letters containing all the information needed to get these and other vital documents.

For those whose records are in foreign countries there are instructions on where to write for birth and death records of U.S. citizens as well as birth records of alien children adopted by U.S. citizens.

Robert L. Berko, executive director, of CERC says that originally the book was published to satisfy the needs of persons applying for various benefits but many others have found it useful. He has received letters from libraries, coroners, law enforcement, social agencies, credit grantors, collection agencies, stock ownership tracers, lawyers, persons searching for missing heirs and even those interested in searching their family roots. All these and others have found use for a book that helps them locate and prove the status of individuals.

Many times documents can be used to prove things other than what they record. For instance, one woman wrote to the group telling them that a birth certificate for her child proved her residence at that time in the United States and helped her in efforts to become a citizen.

To obtain a copy of this useful book send $4 to CERC, Documents, 439 Clark Street, South Orange, N.J. 07079.
